CAMBRIDGE, April 10.—Earl "Tug" Wilson, a youthful gunman of record, was captured by police officers here today as the man who when caught spooning in an unlighted automobile on the Mystic Valley parkway at Arlington early yesterday, shot and seriously wounded Metropolitan Park Police Officer Francis J. Philbrick.

The capture was made in a house on Jackson street, where Wilson was lodging with "Gil" Crosby, his pal. The officers surprised the men in bed. Wilson and Crosby jumped to their feet and grasped revolvers, the policemen said, but with five guns pointed at them, dropped their weapons and tried to run. After a chase through the house to the cellar, they were captured.

Wilson's identity as the assailant of Patrolman Philbrick was suspected when his young woman companion, who spent a night in jail rather than tell her own or her companion's name, informed the police that she was Sarah Doyle of Medford. The officers learned that Wilson, also known as Edward Murphy, had been keeping company with her and obtaining a rogue's gallery photograph of him, got her to ad-

Sealed Verdict Opened in Superior Court Today

Mrs. Helen G. McGowan of West Third street, lost her $10,000 damage suit against the city of Lowell, when a superior court jury today returned a verdict for the defendant. The verdict was reached Friday, was returned sealed and opened shortly after the beginning of court this morning.

Mrs. McGowan sought to recover the money because of alleged suffering, both physical and mental, as the result of a fall she received on October 27 of last year. The accident was said to have happened shortly after 6 o'clock on Bridge street, near the corner of Lakeview avenue. The plaintiff alleged she tripped and fell to the ground as the result of a defect in the sidewalk. The alleged defect was attributed to negligence on the part of the city. The defendant claimed that the plaintiff was not in the exercise of due care and denied each and every allegation. The case was opened Friday morning before Judge Frederick Lawton and a jury. It was finished shortly after two o'clock and went to the jury. As the court retired, it was necessary to bring in a sealed verdict.

Fines aggregating the sum of $200 were assessed in liquor cases by Judge Thomas J. Wright in district court this morning, with a number of other cases continued to a later date. The usual Monday morning assembly of drunken offenders filed the dock comfortably, but most of them received lenient treatment. Hilda Balla, pleaded guilty to a charge of illegal keeping of intoxicants, and was fined $100. In this case it is alleged that the woman took the blame to cover up her husband, who is reported to have disappeared at the time of the seizure, several weeks ago. The young woman was warned that another conviction would result in a sentence to the house of correction. Tone Killel, charged with illegal sale of liquor, entered a plea of guilty and accepted a fine of $100, with admonitions not to have any further dealings in "shine." Leona Duke and Loren Revel, charged respectively with illegal keeping and interfering with an officer, appeared before the court as a result of the raid at 104 Worthen street last Saturday night. In which local and federal officers succeeded in entering the house against the opposition of the inmates, and confiscating 15 gallons of moonshine and 60 cases of beer concealed in a cellar to which entry could be gained only through a well concealed trapdoor.

B. & M. RAILROAD

A case was started in superior court this morning in which Henry W. Allen, a Malden seaman, 62 years old, living on Rivera street in the Linden section, seeks to recover $20,000 from the Boston & Maine railroad for injuries received as the result of being struck by a train.

According to the testimony offered in the case, Allen left his home on the morning of July 3, 1920. He was on his way to the Eastern Steamship office in Boston. He arrived at the Linden crossing and, as he claims, was struck and knocked down by a train. He received a broken leg and multiple injuries.

Allen claimed he looked up and down the tracks when 40 feet away but that he saw no train flagman or any other persons in that vicinity.

The defendant alleges negligence on the part of the plaintiff.

INTERESTING STORY OF EUROPEAN TRIP BY ARTHUR D. PRINCE

Economic and Social Conditions in Germany, France, Italy and England Told by Lowell Business Man After Two Months of Travel ---German People See Another War Ahead and Have No Regrets for World Conflict That Ended in 1918

Declaring that nowhere in Germany is one able to hear a single expression of regret for the world war and stating that Germany still contends that the burden of proof of its justification and adding that travelers in that country find evidence of a belief on the part of the middle class people that another war must come, Arthur D. Prince of this city today spun an interesting story of his two months' European trip that included extensive travel in Germany, France and Italy, and a visit in London.

Not only does Mr. Prince tell of the social and moral side of the countries of the continent, as seen by him, but inasmuch as he was primarily a business trip, his comments upon economic conditions in the countries in the war area are of great value.

He returned to his home last Friday and today was back at his business.

It was in 1919 that Mr. Prince last went abroad and his impressions of the countries on the continent as gathered up as he traveled about, but his business took him directly to the middle class people—the retailers and merchants—the pulse of the nation, and from them he gleaned much of the real Germany, the real France and the real England as each is progressing along the road of after-war rehabilitation.

At the end of the mass members of the Holy Name society and the Catholic Young Men's League gathered in the parish school for communion breakfast and elaborate exercises in observance of the 45th anniversary of the founding of the Holy Name society. The high mass was sung by Rev. James A. Supple, D.D., with Rev. Fr. Feeney, O.P., preaching the sermon and making the announcements. The closing of the men's mission took place at 2 o'clock in the afternoon, when the customary exercises, consisting of rosary, sermon, benediction and the papal blessing, were conducted. McCarthy, O.M.I., and the announcements were made by the pastor, Rev. Lawrence F. Tighe, O.M.I. A large congregation was present and each word was explained by Rev. William J. Stanton, O.M.I. William L. Gookin personally directed the music and Mrs. Hugh Walker presided at the organ. The services were brought to a close by benediction of the Blessed Sacrament. The men's mission came to a close yesterday afternoon at 3 o'clock, with Rev. T. Francis Curry, O.M.I., and Rev. Albert McDermeit, O.M.I., conducting the service, which consisted of the rosary, a sermon on "Perseverance," delivery of the papal blessing and blessing of religious articles. GEN. VON FALKENHAYN OF GERMANY DEAD

BERLIN, April 10.—(By the Associated Press.)—Gen. Erich von Falkenhayn, former minister of war and one-time chief of staff of the German army, died Saturday at Wild Park, near Potsdam.

Gen. von Falkenhayn was appointed war minister of Germany in 1913, succeeding Gen. von Hindenburg. Soon after the outbreak of the world war he was appointed chief of the general staff, succeeding Gen. von Moltke, who at the time was declared to be ill.

In August, 1916, von Falkenhayn was supplanted by von Hindenburg and soon afterward took the field in Transylvania against the Rumanians. It was said at the time of his removal from the position of chief of staff that he had been dismissed for urging Emperor William to abandon the Balkan campaign and shorten the German line.

Falkenhayn defeated the Rumanians in the campaign of 1916. Later he went to Asiatic Turkey where he commanded the Turks.

Von Falkenhayn was born in 1861 and was considered one of Germany's dashing commanders.

BUILDING THE WAY TO PROSPERITY

"The trouble today is not the lack of opportunity, but with lack of people to take advantage of the opportunities that are presented to them."

Mr. Soriero, the well known general manager of the Strand theatre, in expressing this sentiment is visualizing the biggest building boom the country has ever known. With a shortage, according to statistics, of over 300,000 homes in New England alone, with unhealthy, overcrowded tenements without precedent in Lowell, with the demand for home sites far in excess of the supply, it is a wise man who builds and rents to himself, instead of remaining dependent till old age on someone else.

Mr. Soriero was quick to feel the public pulse in this connection, and in his novel plan once more demonstrates in a most striking way the enterprising and progressive spirit of the Strand management.

Briefly, the plan is this: On after Monday, April 10, every patron upon entering the Strand theatre will be presented a card at the door. On this card the patron will write his name and address, keep the stub for identification, and pass the card to the man at the door. At a time to be announced, the patrons will be chosen and their names will be announced on the screen and a beautiful house lot will be awarded to them. There will be no charge for this card for any person purchasing a ticket; and patrons may write as many cards as they wish. At the same time, it will be an undreamed-of opportunity for selected patrons to the Strand theatre to get a beautiful house lot on which to erect an attractive home, and all patrons will have the same opportunity.

Too much credit cannot be given to Mr. Soriero, for it was due to his efforts that the Belvidere Realty company was induced to make this liberal offer to awaken Lowell people to the unusual opportunities in the county seat of Middlesex county. Property in the Belvidere section is generally conceded to be in the most beautiful and promising locality, and it was Mr. Soriero's express wish that his patrons should derive the benefits of an exclusive neighborhood.

The beginning of President Cleveland's fortune was a purchase of land in what is now Cleveland park, one of the best known suburbs of Washington, D. C. Mr. Soriero firmly believes as did Cleveland, that "no investment is so safe, so sure, so certain to enrich its owner as land." Indeed, history shows that it has always been the land owners who have been the most prosperous, the most loyal, and the most contented people of any community; and it is with this conviction that Mr. Soriero has himself purchased the first home site this season at beautiful Belvidere park.

AMUSEMENT NOTES

(By Theatres' Own Press Agents)

H. F. KEITH'S THEATRE
In a measure the present week at the H. F. Keith theatre might be termed "Old Favorites Week," for we are to see those fine old friends, Mr. and Mrs. Jimmie Barry, on the program. In one of the best sketches ever written, "The Rube." For the reason that Barry, who wrote the sketch, has given something of undying interest, his sketch is as good today as it was the first time it was played. That is saying a lot. "The Rube" is the most distinct break-away from the run of rural sketches the theatre has known for many years. The leading part is that of a haysman who looks the part through and through, but whose mighty active mind enables him to set at naught the pitfalls which the clever New Yorkers set for him. And you, it is comedy all the way through. It is good, clean, different comedy. And if Josie Rooney isn't exactly an old favorite, she is the member of a family which is every whit as noted as the Barrys. Daughter of the famous Pat Rooney, Sr., and a sister of Pat Rooney, Jr., she is unquestionably one of the finest dancers on the stage today. She will be assisted by Bobby Nelson and Rube Beckwith in a very gingery musical skit called "A Cafe Honeymoon"

Direct from the concert stage come the Hogsday Sisters, violinists of exceptional ability. There have been sister acts here in the past, with one sister proficient on one instrument and one on another, but never, so far as can be remembered, have both been equally proficient on any one type of instrument. Those girls are equipped in every way to please audiences.

An alliance of song, music and fun is made up of Shalkey, Roth & Wit. Here are three men who will guarantee you 15 minutes of about everything you need. Moriarty & Harris will also appear in their original singing and dancing revue, which is based on New York's love for gaiety. Countess Verona is a Hungarian player of the cimbalom, an instrument capable of giving great beauty of tone, and Montambo & Nan are acrobatic funsters, who do their work silently, but none the less effectively. In addition Topkapi of the Day, Fathe News and Asopos of Fables will be shown.

RIALTO THEATRE

A picture that is peculiarly appropriate to the closing week of the Lenten season opens at the Rialto Theatre today with the showing of "The Rosary." An added feature will be the presence of Miss Harriet Moran, who will sing "In the Gloaming," also "The Rosary," two songs that fit in with the run of the picture in an appealing way. On the same program is a story of the northwest mounted police, entitled "Corporal Jim's Ward," also a comedy and the Kingdrams. Don't fail to go and see this program for the three first days of the week.

THE STRAND

Tom Moore, he of the funny facial expressions, will be shown in his newest Goldwyn offering, "From the Ground Up," at the Strand for the first three days of the week. It's a companion piece to "Hold Your

MERRIMACK SQUARE THEATRE

Two stirring dramatic features, "The Cradle," starring Ethel Clayton, and "Find the Woman," with Alma Rubens in the leading role, are the outstanding attractions of the current program at the Merrimack Square theatre. Coming next Thursday, Friday and Saturday, "Shame," featuring an all-star cast.

THE STRAND

Tom Moore, he of the funny facial expressions, will be shown in his newest Goldwyn offering, "From the Ground Up," at the Strand for the first three days of the week. It's a companion piece to "Hold Your Horses," and you all know how amusing and entertaining that was. Those who are in a position to judge, say that the latest picture is better than any that has gone before, particularly in showing the cleverness of Moore in the characterization of a product of the Irish race. Miss Lottie Pickford, sister of Mary, will be shown in "They Shall Pay," a gripping, powerful drama of Wall Street, in which the star is afforded excellent opportunity to reflect her cleverness. The usual comedy and weekly will also be shown. Don't miss this varied and high grade program.

RUSSIA FIGHTS WOLF OF HUNGER

Only Relief in Sight is the Gift Bread Being Sent From America

Race is Between American Food and the Gaunt Figure of Death

MOSCOW, April 10.—When an American makes his first visit to a Central European city and sees women working with brooms and shovels on the street car tracks he shudders and says, "Oh, how dreadful! In this country they let the women work on the streets at labor hard enough for a man."

But as he pushes farther east, to Riga or Warsaw, and enters Russia, whenever he sees a woman performing this "man's work," he says, "How fortunate that she has work. Now she can get some bread."

Hunger is almost continuous and universal in Russia. It is merely a question of degree. Everyone is more or less hungry all the time—some a little more than others. They are hungry in Petrograd. They are more hungry in Moscow. They are dying of hunger all over the Volga famine area.

And the only relief in sight is the gift bread which America and other countries are sending, with all possible speed, into starving Russia.

The relief program of the American relief administration in Russia includes the daily feeding of 2,000,000 children;

Adventures of the Twins

THE SQUEEDILLUMS

"WE ARE THE SQUEEDILLUMS," SAID THE TINY PERSON—"AT YOUR SERVICE"

It did seem as though Nancy and Nick were never to get over the Seven mountains.

They hadn't gone over half of them yet, and here they were with another difficulty before them. Some one had stolen the best record from its hiding place. Without it, it was of no use to continue their journey toward the Princess Therma's palace.

No, it wasn't Twelve Tons the Surcerer, who had taken it. He was not allowed to follow them. Besides, after finding that the terrible dream he had sent to the twins had come to nothing, he was so disgusted that he flew back to his cave and changed himself from a bat into a dragon again. And there he sat, and waited.

Nancy and Nick stood looking and looking at the hollow place in the ground where the record had been, trying to make up their minds what to do next, when Nancy happened to kick a stone with her toe. As it rolled away she saw a round hole.

"Just look there," she pointed. "I believe it was the gnomes, Nick. Croakabone or Jigabump, or Snio Selsora has come and stolen it just for meanness."

Scarcely had she finished speaking when a tiny creature came out followed by a dozen others. The creature, wasn't a bug or a beetle or a fly, for he wore the finest of clothing, being dressed in scarlet satin with a large neck ruff and a high pointed hat. The others following were quite as elegant.

"Good-night, friends," he called to those behind him. "We've stayed later than usual. The sun's quite up. But no wonder! With such a fine new dance floor, I'd certainly like to know what kind person left it here for us."

Suddenly he spied the Twins. "My, my, whom have we here?" he asked in a conciliatory voice.

"Nancy and Nick," said Nancy. "And who are you?"

"We are the Squeedillums," said the tiny person. "At your service."

OUR BOARDING HOUSE

THE MAJOR CLEARS THE ROOM

adult feeding of 5,000,000 men and women in the Volga famine area, with the American corn purchased by the $20,000,000 congressional appropriation; delivery of food packages which have been purchased by food draft sales in America or other countries, for delivery in Russia; distribution of $8,000,000 medical supplies, nearly half of which were given by the American Red Cross, and the remainder of which were taken over from the medical stores of the U. S. army.

At the request of Herbert Hoover, chairman of the American administration, Col. William N. Haskell, U. S. A., accepted the directorship of the Russian unit. This is the second occasion on which Col. Haskell has been detailed on extended foreign service from the army, for the directorship of American relief work abroad. He was high commissioner for the distribution of American flour in Armenia and Trans-Caucasia, during 1919-1920. He is assisted by Maj. T. C. Lomenan, U. S. A., who served with him as executive officer in the near east, and by Donald Quinn, of Saginaw, Mich., who has been attached to the American relief administration executive staff since the beginning of its child-feeding work in Central Europe. This American relief administration personnel in Russia now includes approximately 150 men, chosen from all phases of American army and civilian life. And this constantly increasing personnel is scattered all over the famine area of Russia—from 200 to 1500 miles from Moscow. Wherever they go, they bring with them America's offering of sympathy to a starving people—the sack of flour or the can of milk. And they are received as the literal envoy of a Providence that has heard and answered prayers.

For the storage and delivery of these life-saving materials for children and adults, the American relief administration has established warehouses and kitchens in seven districts of the Volga famine area. They are located at Kazan, Samara, Saratov, Simbirsk, Tzaritzin and Ufa. Children's feeding kitchens are being maintained in Moscow, Petrograd and Ufa. And food remittance stations are being operated wherever child-feeding and adult-feeding is being carried on. As well as in the following additional stations: Odessa, Kiev, Kharkov, Minsk, Vitebsk, Ekaterinoslav, Peltava, Rostov and Gomel. Each district has one or two warehouses for storage of food, so that there will be sufficient protection against starvation at all times. One week's protection for 250,000 children, according to the figures of the stocks department of the Moscow office, requires 333 tons of food. There are three warehouses in Moscow, which can handle and discharge the shipments of 150 cars daily.

And so the race between American food—now being speeded across the seas—and the figure of death, which watches hungrily for every new famine victim continues. But the Americans who are responsible for the war-torn literature, poetry and art. But these things I cannot think. I must work all day long merely not to be hungry."

Meanwhile, hunger haunts every face, even on the streets of Moscow. Children clutch at a crumb of black bread if they can find it. An old woman, breathing heavily with inflated lungs, scans, as she carries home a small handful of picked bare chicken bones. And a former countess, now sitting at a desk, trying to interpret and translate for American relief workers, sighs and says, "I am tired of life. It is so hard to be hungry all the time. I love literature, poetry and art. But these things I cannot think. I must work all day long merely not to be hungry."

SERIES OF RAIDS IN N. Y.

Izzy Einstein and Moe Smith, Clever Sleuths Arrest 26—Seize $30,000 in Liquor

NEW YORK, April 10.—Disguised as tourists, their car covered with mud and dirt, and their faces smeared with dust, Izzy Einstein and Moe Smith, New York's most versatile prohibition agents, yesterday raided nearly two score cafes, arresting 26 proprietors and employees and seizing liquor valued by the city at $30,000.

It was the first Sabbath liquor raid ever made here by federal sleuths. Seven nationalities were represented in the list of prisoners, who were rounded up after several hours' work. The biggest haul was made in a former saloon at 335 Amsterdam avenue. Izzy and Moe breezed into the place yesterday morning.

"Did you enjoy that speech last night?" asked Izzy of Moe as they approached the bar.

"I did not," replied Moe, disgustedly. "There was too much prohibition in it."

"What'll you have, boys?" asked the proprietor smiling.

"A little hooch," brazenly replied Izzy.

The proprietor poured the liquor in a glass and the two agents poured it into test tubes, which they carried in their vest pockets. The owner, stunned by surprise, then was arrested.

A search of the place, Einstein said, revealed 55 cans of champagne and other imported wines, several cases of gin and whiskey and scores of bottles of assorted liquors.

Walking into a saloon on Ninth avenue, the two agents found the bartender doing a rushing business. After Izzy and Moe had been served with drinks, they arrested the bartender and seized his overcoat which was lying on the back of the bar. In the pockets, they said, they found several bottles of liquor.

When the two agents walked into a cafe at 563 Jefferson street, they got an unlooked for surprise. After being served with liquor, they said they showed their shields and told the proprietor, John Lagodach, he was under arrest.

"What for?" they said he asked of them.

"For violating the prohibition law," Einstein replied.

"Never heard of it," countered Lagodach.

"Come along and I'll have the judge explain," said Einstein, as he led the owner to his car to be taken to the police station.

Before proceeding to the Bronx, Einstein and Smith changed their disguises, assuming that of a coach driver, high hats and all.

"I don't like these Sunday funerals," complained Izzy as they walked into the first Bronx saloon.

"Neither do I," replied Moe. "I hate to work on Sunday."

The bartender, who served them with liquor, agreed with them, saying: "I'd like to go to the Polo grounds this afternoon, but the boss won't let me off."

"Sure he will," replied Izzy. "Come along with me," and he flashed his shield. A summons was left for the owner.

They had no difficulty, they said, in getting liquor except in one place, where the bartender who was serving beer told them to "beat it" and picked up an empty bottle. Izzy and Moe walked out, satisfied they said that there was no chance of getting "anything" on the bartender yesterday.

The average price of a drink, Einstein said, was 60 cents.

"And it is terrible stuff, worse than furniture polish," he added.

KEEP LOOKING YOUNG

It's Easy—If You Know Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets

The secret of keeping young is to feel young—to do this you must watch your liver and bowels—there's no need of having a sallow complexion—dark rings under your eyes—pimples—a bilious look in your face—dull eyes with no sparkle. Your doctor will tell you 90 per cent. of all sickness comes from inactive bowels and liver.

Dr. Edwards, a well known physician in Ohio, perfected a vegetable compound mixed with olive oil to act on the liver and bowels, which he gave to his patients for years.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel, are gentle in their action yet always effective. They bring about that natural buoyancy which all should enjoy by toning up the liver and clearing the system of impurities.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets are known by their olive color. 15c and 30c.—Adv.

SHREDDED KRUMBLES

deliciously flavored WHOLE-WHEAT

"I wish my boy was rugged like Billy!"

Red-blooded, physically courageous children stand out sharply against puny types! Such contrasts are painful enough in childhood! What future can the undersized stripling expect?

Science proves that in most cases that contrast represents the difference between the properly nourished child and the child brought up on foods out of which life-sustaining elements have been bleached—devitalized, denatured!

You should know that Kellogg's delicious whole-wheat KRUMBLES—with the full, enticing flavor of whole wheat for the first time in food history—are what your child needs every day! And, it is just as important that every member of your family eats KRUMBLES! For, KRUMBLES contain every food element that the body demands—and in perfect proportion!

Whole-wheat KRUMBLES produce red blood and bone and muscle! They make children grow big and strong and robust; they build physical courage and mental vigor! KRUMBLES fortify men and women for the day's work! KRUMBLES sustain the aged as nothing else can! All grocers sell KRUMBLES.

The only whole-wheat food with a delicious flavor!

Piles

are usually due to straining when constipated.

Nujol is a lubricant keeps the food waste soft and therefore prevents straining. Doctors prescribe Nujol because it not only soothes the suffering of piles but relieves the irritation, brings comfort and helps to remove them.

Nujol is a lubricant—not a medicine or laxative—so cannot gripe. Try it today.

DAIL MINISTER IS ATTACKED

Duffy Dragged From Platform by de Valera Adherents at Tullamore, Ire.

Disturbers Cause General Consternation at Pro-Treaty Meeting

TULLAMORE, Ireland, April 10.—(By the Associated Press)—George Gavan Duffy, minister of foreign affairs in the Dail Eireann cabinet, was seized by a crowd of young men and women and dragged from a platform upon which he was making an address at a pro-treaty meeting before a large gathering here yesterday. The disturbers in their attack upon Duffy upset the press table, and after causing general consternation among the spectators, abruptly withdrew and shouted: Long live Eamon de Valera! Long live the republic of Ireland!

Tullamore is capital of Kings county, and is located on the Grand Canal, 50 miles west, southwest of Dublin. It has a population of approximately 5000 people.

British Soldiers Cause Stir
DUBLIN, April 10.—(By the Associated Press)—British military foot soldiers, fully armed, appeared in the streets of Dublin Sunday for the first time since the creation of a truce in Ireland. Their presence caused something of a surprise amounting almost to a sensation in certain sections of the capital.

Police Patrol Ambushed
CHARLESTON, Ireland, April 10.—A police patrol of special assignment in the area between Arnaugh and Charlemont was ambushed Sunday and two in the patrol were wounded. Five men believed to be responsible for the attack were arrested.

erick of an attack on the police barracks at Broadford, County Clare, occupied by official Irish republican army units at 2 o'clock this morning, says a Press association despatch from Limerick this afternoon. There was an exchange of fire for a considerable time, the beleaguered force refusing to surrender.

Captain William O'Brien, who was in charge of the units occupying the barracks, was fatally wounded. No other details of the fighting were available.

Anniversary of Rebellion
LONDON, April 10.—(By the Associated Press) Whether the extremist Irish republicans will observe the anniversary of the Easter week uprising against Great Britain in 1916 by attempting to oust the provisional government and establish a republic, is a question that is being seriously discussed in well informed circles both in England and Ireland.

The London Daily Mail's Dublin correspondent is convinced that the provisional government will do nothing to provoke a rebellion by immediate attempts to restore order. He is less clear about the attitude of the more radical republicans and appears to think that the latter's action depends on how far they believe they can away public opinion.

In certain usually well informed political quarters, a demand for a violent stroke is anticipated by the extremist republicans at a very early date. Con-

MINERS PRESENT UNBROKEN FRONT

Second Week of Nation-wide Strike Begins Satisfactorily, Says Lewis

Operators Say Demands of Miners Would Add $3 to Every Ton of Coal

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., April 10.—The second week of the nation-wide suspension of the union coal miners got under way today with the union's organization still presenting an unbroken front and the situation in the non-union fields becoming more favorable to the union's cause, according to the view of the situation expressed by John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers of America.

Mr. Lewis returned to Indianapolis yesterday where he re-established national headquarters for direction of the suspension of work by the union miners.

"As I view the situation," said Mr. Lewis, "the program laid down by the organization is functioning 100 per cent in the non-union field. I feel the international union is steadily gaining strength."

Mr. Lewis said he planned to remain here for several days.

Wage Negotiations

NEW YORK, April 10.—The 19 demands of the striking anthracite miners would add $170,000,000 to the annual coal bill of the nation—$3 on every ton—operators declared here today in opening their campaign for settlement of the strike on a basis of wage reductions.

"This added cost would be paid by the consumer, who, instead of being willing to pay present or increased prices, is rightly demanding that the price of anthracite be reduced," asserted Samuel D. Warriner, president of the Lehigh Coal & Navigation Co. Mr. Warriner is spokesman for the operators before the sub-committee on wage contract negotiations, which tomorrow will resume sessions in an effort to bring the strike to an end.

"The 19 demands of the miners will all result in less production and more concentration," said Mr. Warriner. "The anthracite industry in 1921 paid $20,000,000 for labor in producing $2,000,000 tons of hard coal for domestic use. To concede the demands of the miners would make the payroll approximately $40,000,000 a year."

Mr. Warriner asserted that in 1917 it cost $145,000,000 to mine 74,000,000 gross tons of anthracite; in 1918 it cost $155,735,000 to mine 72,250,000; in 1919 it cost $225,500,000 to mine 60,000,000 tons, and in 1920 the costs had risen and production had decreased until it cost $252,175,000 to mine 65,000,000 tons.

Consequently these English sources of opinion believe that Easter week will be selected as a timely moment for a bold stroke because of its 1916 associations. According to some political reports, the British government is keenly awake to the possibility of serious revolt this week.

of milk and butter, which are not easy to obtain.

France seems to be gaining; the peasantry is working hard but the industrial people are not and as a result prices are excessive and at least 25 to 50 per cent. higher than in 1919. Hotel rates have advanced, 100 per cent. in three years and in practically all lines, retail prices are higher than in the United States.

England's Condition Unsettled

England is not in a healthy economic condition. There is a great deal of labor unrest, too much unemployment, too much apparent lassitude and laziness brought about by the plan of government done to war veterans. Prices are more reasonable than in France, but nothing seems stabilized.

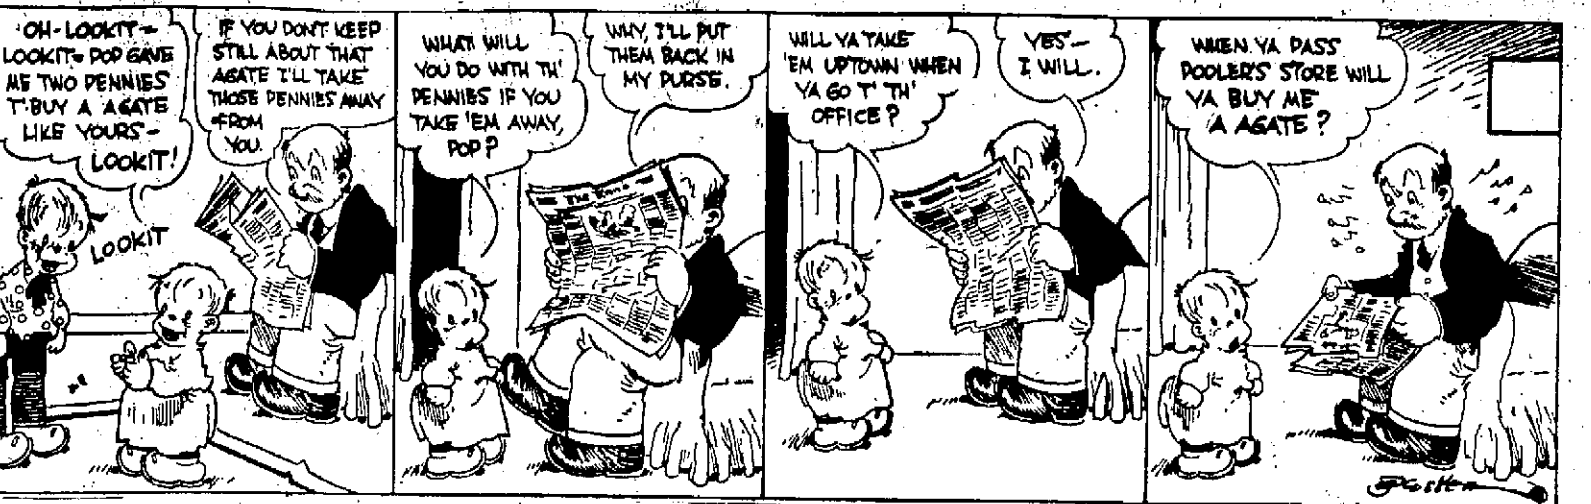

Italy is about half way between Germany and France. Commodities cost quite a bit higher than in Germany and lower than in France.

These last four paragraphs perhaps summarize economic conditions in the four countries visited by Mr. Prince.

Practically every passenger on the S.S. America, on which Mr. Prince sailed from New York on February 4, was a buyer, either from a large retail house, or from chain stores, or representing large importers, and when he arrived in Germany he found

Mr. Prince found Germany dirty from end to end and not at all the "spotless town" it was before the war. Streets are dirty and ill kept and the uniforms of soldiers are shabby and dirty. There are many soldiers to be seen, almost too many to allow for the belief that Germany is restricting her army to 100,000 men.

Mr. Prince was joined by Mrs. Prince in Paris and they traveled extensively in Italy before crossing to England. In Rome Mr. Prince was lavishly entertained

American buyers congregated there as never before. Big corporations such as George Washington, Washburn, Field, Gimble Bros. and Jordan Marsh were represented by as many as 25 or 30 buyers each.

Mr. Prince landed in Germany just after the railroad strike had been settled and naturally found travel greatly congested and heat none too great in hotels.

Mr. Prince's business took him through the more sparsely settled parts of Germany and through the mountainous sections, although he did spend several days in Berlin.

Great Number of U. S. Buyers

"German manufacturers in all lines have taken more than a year's orders in less than three months," said Mr. Prince today "and it is extremely doubtful if they will be able to fill them in any reasonable length of time. Buyers from the United States are taking 10 times as much in one order as has been the custom in other years and all because goods are so much cheaper to buy."

"Of course, the German government now has ordered an export duty of 120 per cent. and this will tend to make prices some higher, but unless some protection is given industries in this country affected by German imports, there will result a serious condition in American labor problems."

No Poverty Apparent

"As to social conditions in Germany," he continued, "I traveled a great deal in the country sections and in the mountain districts and saw very little, if indeed, any of the much advertised German poverty and suffering. The weather was cold, yet women, men and children were warmly clad and apparently were obtaining sufficient nutritious food."

Living by Americans with American money at German hotels is tremendously low. It seems high to Germans, who think only in marks, but the American dollar will do wonders. For instance, champagne can be purchased for 75 cents to $1.25 a quart, wine is 30 cents a bottle, a four-course dinner, excellently served, does not cost more than 75 cents."

Mr. Prince tells of attending the state opera in Gotha and sitting in the state sought for seats at a cost of only 30 cents. This is approximately $6 in marks, but at present one can obtain 250 marks for one American dollar. At pre-war exchange rates, the mark was worth about 23 cents.

"I found that wholesale prices in Germany are not stabilized," said Mr. Prince, "and also feel that the German merchant is using some of his business morals. Goods purchased today may be cancelled tomorrow, if another buyer offers 10 per cent. more. Then, too, the depreciation of the mark has a most unfortunate effect. It is sinking in exchange value almost daily and as it retards, labor makes additional demands and raw materials increase in price."

People Living for a Day

"In Berlin, I did not get the same atmosphere as was apparent in the country sections of the country. There is a tense feeling of high living, or at least a tendency to spend as the days go by. To me, it seemed that the people there realized that today the mark is worth just so much, tomorrow it will drop in value and so they spend while they have it and think not much about the morrow."

"Accommodations in cafes are hard to obtain, particularly during the evening hours," continued Mr. Prince. "We went into Kempinski's, the largest cafe in the world, I believe, capable of seating 3000 persons at one time and it was only with the greatest difficulty that finally we were able to find a small table in a remote part of the cafe. That condition exists everywhere in Berlin."

No Regret for World War

"Of course, one has to read between the lines somewhat when talking with the German people. They are loath to say very much, and nowhere did I hear one single expression of regret for the war. Germany doesn't seem to understand yet why the United States went into the war, but the middle class people admit that the entrance of this country into the conflict settled Germany's fate. Yet, they do not seem to regret. They do say that the rape of Belgium was a mistake, but they shrug their shoulders and add, 'But we were willing to pay Belgium for the damage caused.' They still feel that the sinking of the Lusitania was justified."

Another War Expected

"I think Germany expects another war, in fact, I was told so by a number of merchants with whom I talked. They do not know who it will be with, but they say that Germany must be given a chance to breathe. These people say, 'unless we can export, we must die,' and they will not do without a struggle."

Mr. Prince said that he saw evidences of dislike for the present form of republic in Germany and sensed a feeling that sooner or later, the rule of the union will return to a form of monarchy.

"In traveling about Germany," continued Mr. Prince, "one cannot help but feel that she has allowed her social and business morals to sag. German merchants always were easy to deal with and one could trust them to ship exactly what was purchased, but today this has given away to bargaining and one may receive an order well padded with paying tokens."

Mr. Prince was joined by Mrs. Prince in Paris and they traveled extensively in Italy before crossing to England. In Rome Mr. Prince was lavishly entertained

Cases in the District Court

Both cases were continued until April 20.

The officers called at the house a little after 11 o'clock Saturday night, armed with a search warrant. Sergeant Michael H. Winn, Officers Alfred J. Conney, Francis H. Moore and Adelard Cossetto of the liquor squad, and Federal Officers Harry G. Sheldon and J. Edgar Dowers comprised the raiding party.

When the officers entered, a state of chaos came into being. The Dubu woman, it is alleged, seized an iron bar and broke a number of bottles, scattered by strings in a barrel of water. In this barrel were many bottles from the sides, and a weak alcoholic solution resulted from the breaking of the bottles.

In attempting to gain further evidence, the officers allege that they were obstructed by Loren Revel, the other party in the case. He was arrested along with the woman, who, the police say, had a $100 fine for a previous violation.

Finally, after emptying a closet well filled with boxes and clothing, came upon a trapdoor, and after entering through the trapdoor, found cases of beer in profusion and many containers filled with moonshine.

After drama, who was arrested on Middlesex street Saturday afternoon, was charged with illegal sale this morning, and was continued until April 20. Viola Tacevich was before the court for illegal keeping and was continued to the same date.

Costas Charles, charged with illegal keeping, was also continued to April 20, making the fifth case continued to that date.

Thomas F. Stackhouse and Percy W. Coffin appeared in connection with breaking and entering and larceny of a fishpole from a camp on the Concord river near Billerica last week. Several cases of breaks in that section have been reported recently and Officers O'Brien and White of Billerica captured several young men coming from the direction of the camps last week. The boys were continued until tomorrow.

John Tsafaras was continued until April 17, pending a finding by the grand jury. He is charged with receiving stolen property in connection with the thefts of cloth and cigars some time ago from cars of the N. Y. & H. railroad.

Frederick Paradis, Alice Riley and Mary Daniels were charged with drunkenness. They were found in a house early yesterday morning and taken to the station. Each of the defendants was given a sentence of five months in the house of correction, suspended for one year, with a warning that another appearance meant the house of correction for the term specified.

Daniel J. Doyle, who is said to have come out of jail on April 6, was in court once more for drunkenness. He was sent to the state farm.

Joseph J. Burke, who was found lying in the street in a drunken condition, was fined $15 and placed on probation for six months.

Peter Dudulis was continued, until tomorrow on a drunkenness complaint, so that his wife may be consulted as to her wishes regarding his disposition.

Anthony Grzyb, another drunken offender, was sentenced to three months in the house of correction, with sentence suspended for six months. The arresting officer said that he had taken the offender home and put him to bed. Later he attacked his wife who cut him up a little in defense. His face showed the cuts very clearly.

Wladyslaw Nalwalko came up on continuance, charged with drunkenness. He did not answer to his name, however, and a capias was issued, with orders to bring the man in at once.

Dennis J. Murphy, sentenced to the state farm for drunkenness, entered an appeal and was held for the superior court.

CITY HALL CLERKS PRESENT BILLS

Bills presented this month to the city auditor for payment include one under general expense in the sum of $150 for services rendered by J. Joseph Hennessy, former city auditor, in the claim case of Hannah Harrington against the city of Lowell, which now has been settled, with the payment of more than $3300 to the plaintiff. Mr. Hennessy was retained by the mayor to represent the city in the case, inasmuch as City Solicitor Edward J. Tierney was counsel for the plaintiff.

March bills to come out of the $20,000 appropriation for the relief of the unemployed total $1877.62. Clifton E. Tuttle, clerk in the street department, another clerk in the same office, have presented bills for services rendered for $75 and $25, respectively. Most of the bill total is made up of charges for hired teams.

Retained for three days by the sovereign grand commander of the supreme council of Masons, Roscoe V. Palmeri and the grand secretary was his personal guide during that period.

In London Mr. and Mrs. Prince were entertained by a former Lowell man, Mr. E. Stratton, president of the board of the Pyrene Fire Insurance Co. for England and the continent. Mr. Stratton will be remembered in Lowell as a teacher of banjo and mandolin.

Not very good weather was found in London, in fact, three inches of snow, an unusual amount, fell on the day they left.

peace conference. Representatives of 33 states were prepared to take steps that it was hoped would lead to the economic reconstruction of Europe, the conference particularly to be concerned with plans for rebuilding central Europe and rehabilitating Russia, which was admitted by many delegates, to be a subject of supreme importance by itself—perhaps the most far-reaching question which the congress shall be called upon to solve.

The ambassador from the United States, Richard Washburn Child, was to take his seat today in a section reserved for eminent visitors. He was to attend all the open meetings but will not be present at any conferences of committees at which the actual important work of the conference will be completed.

Formal opening of the sessions was to take place at 3 o'clock this afternoon in the historic palace of St. George. This picturesque structure was built in 1260 by Prince Oliver and was the first official residence of the captains of the people, then the seat of the celebrated company and bank of St. George.

Great throngs on Palm Sunday visited the scene of today's conference and found scores of assistants engaged in carrying plants and flowers to relieve the somewhat sombre and lonely aspect of the auditorium. Thousands of interested Genoaese gathered along the waterfront seeking advantageous positions from which to observe foreign diplomats and distinguished statesmen upon their arrival.

Lively scenes surrounding the opening of the congress, intensified by the activity of this busy port of commerce impressed observers as a fitting background for a congress whose serious mission is the restoration of economic health to a suffering and sorely tried Europe.

A complete list of the nations and states represented, with the number of their delegates, follows:

South Africa, 4; Albania, 4; Austria, 6; Australia, 14; Belgium, 14; Bulgaria, 15; Canada, 30; Czechoslovakia, 30; Denmark, 10; Estonia, 25; Finland, 7; France, 80; Germany, 80; Great Britain, 125; Greece, 22; Ireland, 6; Italy, 6; Latvia, 8; Lithuania, 7; Luxembourg, 4; Norway, 8; New Zealand, 14; Holland, 16; Poland, 40; Portugal, 9; Rumania, 22; Russia, 12; Jugoslavina, 12; San Marino, 16; Spain, 16; Sweden, 10; Switzerland, 8; and Hungary, 7.

Leviathan Arrives at Newport News

NEWPORT, Va., April 10.—The Leviathan, queen of the American merchant marine passenger fleet, reached here this morning from New York and was piloted to a specially prepared berth at the plant of the Newport News Shipbuilding & Dry Dock Co., where she will be reconditioned for the shipping board. The big liner traveling under her own steam for the first time in many months, made the trip without incident. Rear Admiral Hugh Rodman, commanding the Fifth naval district, and Rear Admiral Philip Andrews, commandant of the Norfolk navy yard, watched her pass through Hampton Roads.

Injunction Granted to Coal Operators

CHARLESTON, W. Va., April 10.—Nine union members and officers were forbidden to interfere with free competition among men working in the coal industry in West Virginia and tent colonies of strikers in Mingo county were ordered abandoned after thirty days, in a temporary injunction issued by Judge George W. McClintock, in United States district court here today. The injunction was granted on the petition of the Borderland Coal Co., and 62 other West Virginia and Kentucky operators.

DRUNKENNESS INCREASING

If the bill now before congress providing for the deportation of aliens convicted of violating the Volstead act became law, Uncle Sam would have something to do for his idle ships. From Lowell alone, perhaps several hundred alien convicts would be eligible for the trip to their home land and we are not any more addicted to the moonshine business than is any other city of our size, perhaps not quite so much as many others.

During the war, we sent two million men to France and if we should clean up the alien offenders against the Volstead act all over the country, we might have to deport more than two millions. That would leave the business to real Americans who could not be deported. Yet this rigorous policy would not stop the moonshine business. Here in Lowell, we find a great many stills, we haul them away and impose fines or jail sentences upon the offenders. But the business is continued by others or taken up by the same parties as soon as they get out of jail.

In spite of the activity of the police liquor squad and the federal officers, it is conceded that drunkenness is on the increase in Lowell. This was shown by the recent report of Probation Officer Cronin and there are other visual proofs equally convincing. To resort to the policy of deportation, however, would be monstrous. It would promptly result in international complications that might result in war. But we doubt whether any such law would stand the test of constitutionality, for the reason that every alien coming here is at once guaranteed the protection of our flag and equal treatment under the law. Such a law would be the rankest kind of class legislation. We can use our discretion in allowing immigrants to come here; but to deport them for an offense of this kind is quite another story. Such a step would, and one of the first acts of the that would astonish the world.

CONFLICT OF AUTHORITY

Undoubtedly, it was the intention of the framers of the city charter in providing for a board of public service to overcome the petty interference and domination of city officials who are not directly responsible for the work of the departments placed in control of this board.

Although the board is responsible to the mayor for results, it is not expected that it will consult his honor at every step. It is to do its work according to its best judgment and if it fails, then it will be the duty of the mayor to take action. It is refreshing, therefore, to find the board exercising the degree of independence necessary to the successful performance of its duties.

Mayor Brown overstates the extent of his authority when he undertakes to rebuke subordinates in any department except his own—in the mayor's office—for refusal to take orders from him. He should have nothing to say to subordinates and no employee of any department not directly in charge of the executive can be expected to take orders from the mayor.

It seems that there is still a great deal of needless misconception as to the extent of the mayor's authority and that of the heads of departments or the administrative boards chosen jointly by the mayor and the city council.

When the mayor says he is running the city, he makes a statement that is not true. He is but one of many officials chosen to run the city and the duties of each are so clearly laid down that there seems to be little excuse for misunderstanding or for the frequent clashes between public officials on the question of their respective powers.

WHERE DO WE FIT IN?

One of the things that may be discussed at Geneva will be the contention of the United States that we should have had an equal voice with any of the other associated powers in the distribution of mandates. Yet the mandates were given out without consulting the United States. Thus the colonies of Germany were allotted to different powers and when it came to pass that the United States showed some interest in the island of Yap, that too, had been given out. It was in full possession of Japan and by whose authority given without consulting the United States. We took part in the war although some of our European friends think that we entered it only to make money; but because we balked at signing the Versailles treaty, League of Nations and all, we were left out in the reparation scheme just as if we had taken no part in the war. We did not ask for anything, but that did not justify any power in assuming that we relinquished our right to have a voice in the distribution of the spoils of war. On this point there is a direct issue between the United States and the allied powers.

Moreover, the mandates were to be assumed as a trust to be exercised in the interest of the subject people, not for the special benefit of the governing power. Already it seems that some of the subject peoples are being exploited in the usual way by the powers in control. This, of course, is done in the interest of civilization.

BUSINESS

Business cannot function smoothly until all phases are balanced, on the same relative level.

We have seen this work in our country, where the farmer, getting low prices for his crops and livestock, hasn't been able to pay the high prices asked for city men's products.

It works the same in foreign lands. Hence the significance of the European Reserve Board's report that prices in England average 97 per cent. above pre-war, against 208 in France, 82 in Denmark, and 153 in Norway, countries where currency depreciation is not much out of line.

This out-of-balance situation tends to stimulate sales on one side and chloroform them on the other. The two counteract each other.

Gradually the country comes out of the cyclone cellar. Promoters, undismayed by the epidemic of commercial failures, in March authorized the issuance of $552,768,000 in new securities, compared with only $252,678,000 in March, 1921.

This is so much new blood for business.

The big fellows are expecting industrial activity and getting ready for it. Courage is increasing in the private offices, and it will be infectious.

OUR FARMERS

In a symposium by the governors of farming states relative to the signs of returning prosperity, the general opinion is, that the farmers of the United States have "turned the corner." Let us hope so and let us hope also that the said governors will hope that nothing will occur to mar this encouraging outlook.

Governor Cox says: "In Massachusetts high long-haul freight rates create greater local demand for farm products. Development of specialties such as raising milk, fruit, onions, tobacco, poultry and cranberries bring good returns. Good farms with good buildings can be bought at reasonable figures. This state has unusual educational facilities and excellent roads."

It is well that our state is ranked among those identified with agriculture as this fundamental industry should be encouraged in every possible way. The governor's statement does not savor much of the farming industry and yet we have in this state a very fair proportion of farmers and they deserve the very best treatment we can give them. If they can provide our agricultural produce, why not help them and ourselves also by patronizing them?

SUICIDE THREATS

Alienists warn us that threats of suicide or its contemplation are usually treated with derision and contempt. Instead of being taken with all seriousness, if someone tells you he is going to commit suicide, don't laugh at him. He may do it. A hint of suicide should be regarded as the first symptom of a mental condition that is dangerous.

It is the way of the world to scoff at suicide talk. Psychologists tell us that we should help to reason the victim out of his rambles. Their conclusion that this can be done is based on a mass of statistics gathered from life insurance reports and statistics regarding suicide in large cities.

As we have already stated, there are two great causes for suicide. One is the absence of all sense of moral responsibility for the life given by the Creator; the other is mental irresponsibility. If the former cause were largely removed, the latter would be much less prevalent.

INDUSTRIES IN IRELAND

The Irish provisional government believes there is a great future for Irish merchandise in the markets of the world, and one of the first acts of the new régime was to create an Irish trademark for goods manufactured entirely in Ireland. The new government is showing every encouragement to the development of industry, to such an extent in fact that already Irish firms are realizing the importance of Irish manufactured goods, which now truly are on the market in competition with those of the world.

LOCAL MILK SUPPLY

It is of vast importance to every city to have a local milk supply, that is, one which is not imported from a distance. At the present time, Boston milk dealers complain that within 40 miles of that city there is a surplus of milk available daily without a market, that is, there are no purchasers for it; and yet, the milk sold widely in Boston is imported a distance of 250 miles.

It is estimated that Boston dealers lose $112 on each car of milk brought from a distance of 250 miles as compared with a car brought a distance of 40 miles. That would amount to a very considerable sum in the course of a year and it goes to prove for Lowell as well as Boston, the wisdom of fostering a milk supply produced near home.

GASTON FOR SENATOR

Col. William A. Gaston's announcement that he will be a candidate for the nomination for United States Senator to oppose Senator Lodge has brought out some heated comments from William Democrats and Whigs. Mr. Whipple, who evidently intends to be a candidate for the nomination. He thinks he is better equipped to make a winning bid than is Colonel Gaston. Let us hope that any contest for the nomination will be such as not to split the opposition to Mr. Lodge so as to make any his re-election. It is an old custom with the democratic party to split the chances of victory by bitter contests among the candidates.

SEEN AND HEARD

Moonshine is aged in the woods.

A hen-pecked man feels like a worm.

Swat the flies now, or the flies will swat you later.

Men who ought to be out making business hoon are sitting around blaming everything on the war.

From the amount of red tape hand-clapping Secretary Weeks, his name ought to be changed to Months.

Figures show there is enough coal on hand to keep the operators raising prices three months.

Drew a Blank

"What's become of the old-fashioned captain of industry who used to boast that he could hire all the brains he wanted in the open market for $25 a week?" "I know one of that type. Once or twice a week he goes out behind his garage and kicks himself."

"What for?" "That's how he got a son-in-law."—Birmingham Age-Herald.

Positive Identification

He was newly arrived in this country and was none too familiar with the use of the telephone. So he took down the receiver and demanded: "Any want to talk to my wife." "Number, please?" "Oh," he replied, perfectly willing to help out, "she has my second van."—American Legion Weekly.

No One to Charge

The disheveled stranger made his way into the police station. "Are you the sergeant in charge?" he asked, and repeated the name of the uniform who was seated at a desk and writing in a large ledger. "I'm lost," said the disheveled man. "You are—eh?" replied the stout man in uniform, as he continued writing. "Well, if you can prove anybody's missing you, we'll take up the case."—Philadelphia Inquirer.

Ants Were Hungry

Telephone repairmen expect all kinds of trouble and they are never disappointed. Following heavy rains, fifty-nine telephones were out of service in an exchange in far-off Australia. Investigation showed the cause of the trouble to be white ants, which were found among the wires in an underground cable. To reach the wires the ants had eaten through the heavy lead sheath of the cable and through a thick wrapping.

Snapper Telephone

"You are reminded that while the telephone can talk, it cannot think." Such is a phrase from the instructions issued to subscribers of the first telephone company in Michigan, placed in operation at St. Ignace in 1854. It was "snapper" telephone, the name being derived from the peculiar signaling device used in calling central. The directions, in full were: "To call—Give six sharp raps with the alarm, making a slight pause after the first three. The answer should be hello. (talk)—Place your mouth close to the funnel and speak plainly and forcibly into the instrument. Always talk slowly, distinctly, forcibly, directly into the telephone—but not too loud. Exercise care—that one person may listen while the other is talking, so that both will not be speaking at the same moment. You are reminded that while the telephone can talk, it cannot think. Think and be accustomed to use, go slow." The progress of science has relegated the "snapper" signal and the crude instrument which did duty as both transmitter and receiver, to the limbo of last things. The phrase first quoted above, however, is good advice, even for present-day telephone users.

The Car's Worth While

Long years ago, without a thought, I bought a car—and then I bought some gas and oil, and tires, and sundries.

And forty thousand other things—Till all my debt was gone, and I began to go in debt to buy the gear I needed for that car. My friends would point at me from afar, and say, "These gone the boob—he's done—He's busted that—punctured like one of his own bum tires." But all those gentle words were fooled, I have a couple cents in bank, and as the awful years pass I buy more cars, and more tires, and more gas, and more oil, and more sundries. And all the endless little things. You need to run a car, I'll say, Go buy a car, for it will pay—And keep you hustling on your toes—And though your friends may point and snarl, You'll find at last the car's worth while.

—JOHN DOWD in Farm Life.

MAN ABOUT TOWN

New England weather! Mark Twain had good reason to disparage it. Lowell had a miniature blizzard on April 1, and Saturday, a week later, the weather was decidedly warm. New Englanders do not follow the calendar so much as their own peculiar institutions. We hibernated at a mistaken season, then a sudden change in the calendar says we should be freezing. Anyway, the calendar and the weather agree today for a wonder—Spring is here.

Here is the echo of a wall that comes from the near east where children are and to be starving. Owing to a 25 per cent reduction in appropriations, the Near East Relief will be forced to abandon 25,000 orphans in the trans-Caucasian famine zone within the next few weeks, unless the American public comes to their rescue. These are children such as those in the bread lines at Tiflis, whom the American relief agency has been keeping alive on soup and a quarter of a pound of bread a day. Should the American public forsake them, they will perish the same as the thousands of children in needy ranks who are seen begging for bread, wandering the roads seeking for refuse or lying dead in trans-Caucasia.

New York is installing fire alarm boxes without giving due thought to the number of false alarms rung in by mischievous-makers who "obey that impulse." The Paul Pry will find it hard to resist a fire alarm hand-dangling free outside the red box, just as they cannot resist touching the button with their fingers. If it's any use, or putting an umbrella up in a freshly laid concrete sidewalk. Shrewd psychologists a long time ago realized that the Paul Pry instinct could best be kept in bounds by making it necessary to break a pane of glass before ringing for the fire alarm. Approval of the alarm boxes the "discovery" box, a few of which are now in use in this city, is the same of perfection. If three alarms are pulled at the same time they will ring in succession, each waiting till the other has done its duty. The old style boxes in use here are not endowed with that striking facility.

AS TRUEBERTON BRADLEY'S
DAILY POEM

It's fun to go forth on your travels
Wonder you may be inclined;
To watch how the highway unravels
And leaves things familiar behind;
There's joy in the heart of the rover
Wherever he happens to roam,
But when all the wandering's over
It's good to come home!

Though strangers you've met may Have grown kind
And places you've lingered have been It's great to get back to your own Kind,
Of whom you can say, "They are mine!"
And whether, by chance, you're returning
To mansion, apartment or shack, You'll say, "Here's an end of my yearning,
I'm glad to get back!"

Your town may be rainy or drouthful,
But just keep this thought in your dome,
Old John Howard Paine said a mouthful.

Regarding the pleasures of home:
And since he undoubtedly said it
Much better than I—as you say—
I'll slip Mr. Payne all the credit—
And call it a day!

hours. This is the goal of the transit commission of New York city. "It already is done in many German towns. A considerable fraction of street car patrons would be willing to pay double or triple fare for the guarantee of a seat. Seats could be sold by numbered tickets, same as in a theatre, sale stopping when all seats were engaged. Running part of the street cars like this might put many financially crippled transportation companies back on their feet. Street car Pullman service will come.

"What's a Frankenstein?" I have been asked. Mary Shelley's "Frankenstein," the most horrible story in English, was written to amuse the poet Shelley, Lord Byron, and other literary people, who were gathered at Geneva in the summer of 1816, says the April Mentor Magazine. Byron suggested that each person in the group write a ghost story. Mrs. Shelley's came to her in a dream. It was published and the reading world was so stirred the book went through edition after edition.

A leading chain of stores reports its business is the biggest ever experienced at this time of year. Price at present is the key to sales. Later on when another boom comes and when general prosperity, people who are buying closely now will again become reckless with their money. Maybe perpetual prosperity would be a bad thing. Maybe a wise providence sends hard times to sober us financially and restore our sense of values and conservation of wealth.

The Aftermath Of Influenza

This is No. 1 of a series of advertisements, prepared by a competent physician, explaining how certain diseases which attack the air passages—such as pneumonia, influenza, whooping cough, measles or even a long continued cold—often leave these organs in an inflamed, congested state, thus affording a favorable foothold for invading germs. And how Vicks VapoRub may be of value in this condition.

Your doctor will impress upon you that following recovery from the active stage of influenza, there often remains an inflamed, congested condition of the air passages—throat, larynx, bronchial tubes and lungs.

Frequently the cough hangs on—soreness of the chest persists—you take cold easily and there may be obstinate catarrh. This condition is slow to clear up and if neglected may favor the development of pneumonia, or later on, serious disease of the lungs.

Such cases should continue under the care of their physician—should exercise moderately in the open air—eat plenty of wholesome food—avoid overwork and sudden chills.

Nightly applications of Vicks VapoRub may help nature to complete the process of repair. Because Vicks acts locally by stimulation thru the skin to draw out the inflammation, attract the blood away from the congested spots and relieve the cough. In addition, the medicinal ingredients of Vicks are vaporized by the body heat. These vapors are breathed in all night long, thus bringing the medication to bear directly upon the inflamed areas.

Vicks should be rubbed in over the throat and chest, until the skin is red—then spread on thickly and cover with hot flannel cloths. Leave the clothing loose around the neck and the bed clothes arranged in the form of a funnel so that the vapors arising may be freely inhaled. If the cough is annoying, swallow a small bit of Vicks the size of a pea.

Samples will be sent free to new users on request to the Vicks Chemical Company, Greensboro, N. C.

What's This? "Sweet Alice" Calhoun in a Melodrama!

ALICE CALHOUN. WHEN YOU SEE THAT SWEET FACE IN A MOVIE BLOOD-THINGLER, YOU KNOW MELODRAMA IS POPULAR

(By JAMES W. DEAN)

NEW YORK, April 10.—The photoplay pendulum has swung to melodrama. During the days when war furnished life's own melodrama, gunplay and crook pictures appeared empty spectacles alongside the press dispatches from the western front. A romantic period followed the armistice. War's reaction left the public in a receptive mood for saccharine romances and Cinderella themes. The next vogue was the spectacle film, first introduced by Lubitsch and other foreign directors. By now life in the United States has drifted back to the even tenor of its way. Jazz is dead. The short skirt faces the end of its sway. Calarets are passed. The present movement on the stock market is indicative of the temper of the times. The on yithings that break the humdrum of everyday existence are the radio and the movie melodrama. At least ten melodramas are now in production or recently completed. The most surprising of these is "The Angel of Crooked Street." Its surprise is that Alice Calhoun is the star of it. Alice has one of the most beautiful faces that grace the silver screen. There is something ethereal in her countenance. Some of her admirers may protest against her appearance in a crook play, their argument being that anyone so engaging as she was in "The Little Minister" should not be the heroine of a melodrama. But all of the melodrama of life is pivoted upon feminine pulchritude. Beauty has ever been the urge of bandits bold. In "The Angel of Crooked Street," Alice becomes involved with a band of bandits. She purposes to gain vengeance upon a woman who has been unjust to her by aiding crooks in robbing her son. However, vengeance isn't secured through robbery. She marries the son and he scorns his mother and that ought to be vengeance enough for any daughter-in-law.

DISTINGUISHED AUTHOR

Sir Arthur Conan Doyle, Creator of Sherlock Holmes
Arrives in N. Y.

NEW YORK, April 10.—(By the Associated Press).—Sir Arthur Conan Doyle, creator of the marvellous Sherlock Holmes, but now a sincere believer in things spiritual, arrived here last night to raid America. "I propose to make a raid on American skepticism," he said in explaining the purpose of his proposed lecture tour. "I propose to raid church and bally alike." Sleeping on American shores from the White Star liner Baltic for the first time in seven years, the distinguished author admitted that the memory and reputation of the master detective still surrounded him, but asserted that he had definitely and enthusiastically graduated from material to spiritual things. It is not that Sherlock was out of place or irrelevant, but Sir Arthur declared he had "learned the truth" and Sherlock Holmes, however interesting and valuable as a friend, "has no place in my life now." But the atmosphere of materialism was present as Sir Arthur, his wife and his three children arrived. For the creator of Sherlock Holmes was met as quarantined by a man equally famous in the world of detectives, William J. Burns, chief of the bureau of investigation of the department of justice. Mr. Burns said he was very much a materialist, but went down the bay to greet the English visitor as "an old friend and a man who would have been a wonderful detective." "Spiritualism today," said Sir Arthur after he had greeted the American detective, "is nothing but religion. It is a greater religion than anything we have ever known. Fifty years from today this world is going to be a spiritual world in which leaders of thought are going to laugh at our puny attempts to fathom the future." "Spiritualism teaches a definite knowledge of the life after so-called death. It teaches us not to fear death and that the passing of heart beats is merely a promotion. "You see, a so-called dead man goes to a happier place. There is no crime, no aordiness, and it is many, many times happier. You always have a different task proving to a man on that plane that he, too, is really dead." That is what Sir Arthur is going to teach here. His lecture tour, or raid, is not for money, he claims. Whatever he gets, goes to the cause, although he admits he probably will take it away from the United States, because we "already have all the money in the world." The Doyleys will be in America three months. They will visit Philadelphia, Boston, Washington, St. Louis, Chicago and possibly other cities.

Tom Sims Says

Chicago bandit attacked two policemen, but they got away. Lloyd George reads the "no" in Genoa backwards. Nice thing about broadcasting political speeches by radio is you don't have to listen to them. They call themselves shifters; but others call them shiftless. Lady Astor is coming over to give America advice. One aster not born to blush unseen. A woman never shows her age on purpose. When prosperity got around the corner it ran into a coal strike. "Never kiss your wife before a crowd," says Social Hints. Should the crowd be kissed first? Italy will have 1500 men guarding the roads at Genoa. With that many, they ought not to steal much. The hog census being taken is expected to show a complete list of the high priced landlards. When the political pot boils there is always lots of smoke. Mrs. Asquith has gone back to England, so Mr. Asquith's vacation is over. Thirty-seven people were murdered in New York last month, but things are still crowded. A man doesn't have to ride a race horse to be thrown by him. He who hesitates is lost—if he hesitates on a railroad track. When some men get high they think they are also low, Jack and Gambo. If it will cost $75,000,000 to scrap our warships, why not let them scrap each other? St. Paul man testifies his wife spends $4500 yearly on cosmetics. She will get painter's colic. WHY BE SICK? Did it ever occur to you that the sickness you are troubled with may be directly traceable to bowel poison? Get quick relief from Dr. Grady's Tablets. THE YOUNG MEN'S CATHOLIC INSTITUTE

Members of the Young Men's Catholic Institute observed their second quarterly communion Sunday, when about 500 members of the organization met at the Blackpool street quarters, to march to the 3 o'clock mass at the Immaculate Conception church. The sole, "The Palms" was sung by Joseph Kelly during the service, and Thomas Kelly sang "O Salutaris" at the consecration. "I Love To Hear My Saviour's Voice" was rendered at the close of the service by Andrew Doyle. Upon returning to the society's rooms and partaking of the excellent communion breakfast, the entertainment program began. William H. O'Brien of the telephone and telegraph division of the state department of public utilities, spoke interestingly of his experiences as an employee in this line of work, where he began as a messenger. Numerous amusing stories were related by the speaker in connection with his work, and in conclusion, Mr. O'Brien appealed to the members to strive to place the cause of their society, by putting it on a standard set by the best citizens of the community. The missionaries who conducted last week's mission, Rev. Frs. Curry and McElmott, O.M.I., gave instructive talks and interested the members exceedingly in their stories of their experiences in mission work. Rev. Fr. Lawrence P. Tigue, O.M.I., the spiritual director, also spoke. A musical program followed, embracing the following numbers: Songs, Thomas Kelly, Andrew Doyle, Edward Cawley, Frank McMartin, Joseph Craven, Joseph Wodan, William Moss, Thomas Carlin; piano solos, John Broderick and Paul Angelo; saxophone solos, Arthur Boucher. The Y.M.C.I. baseball committee was very active yesterday, enlisting the members in their plans for the season. The building of one of the strongest teams in the city is the work now in the hands of Manager Clark and it is confidently predicted that the Y.M.C.I. team will lead the Twilight League.

AN EXCELLENT MUSICAL PROGRAM

A musical program of unusual merit was given at the evening service at the First Universalist church Sunday, when the regular church quartet was augmented by the Weber male quartet of Boston and Edwin R. McLoon, violinist. The service was one of a series arranged by the pastor, Rev. Caleb E. Fisher, D.D., in which he has departed somewhat from the usual preaching custom, by discussing subjects of importance in the life of the church. The subject of Dr. Fisher's talk last evening was, "Does the World Need Sectarian Religion or Christ's Religion?" During his discussion of the subject, the pastor said that the day of Billy Sunday is passed and that the converts secured under the spell of such preaching have slipped back into accustomed methods of life.

He has won many trophies during his time in the running game and thinks it is time to retire.

FLOW OF WORDS IN AIR GRADUAL

Duncan Explains How Sound
Waves Travel and Reverse
Themselves in Field

Broadcasting is Simple Matter When Transmitting
Principle is Understood

By R. L. DUNCAN
Director, Radio Institute of America
Before we go any further with the erection of larger receiving sets, some explanation should be made about transmitting.

How are the dots and dashes, lectures and concerts wafted through the air?

We know that most broadcasting is done on a 260-metre wave length. We know shops and commercial stations
have a normal transmitting length of 500 metres.

But what is this wave length? What has it to do with radio?

The flow of electric current in any circuit is accompanied by the existence of interlinked magnetic and static fields which surround the conductors carrying the current and extend throughout space.

Whenever the direction of current flow in the circuit is reversed, these fields reverse themselves also.

Like Water Ripples

This reversal does not take place throughout space instantaneously. The phenomenon is somewhat similar to the ripples on the surface of the water when a pebble is thrown in.

The disturbance gradually propagates itself at a uniform speed, keeping its shape and characteristic until it dies due to friction losses. This reversal in the electric field propa-
gates itself in much the same way.

On account of the similarity to ripples in the water, this phenomenon is called an electromagnetic wave. Such waves, however, travel outward not only in one plane but they radiate into space through the ether.

Wave Series

If a frequently reversed current is sent through a circuit, the interlinked magnetic and static fields will alternately reverse at the same frequency.

This constitutes a series of waves progressing from the current-carrying circuit outward into space in all directions.

The length of these waves radiated is measured by the distance between two consecutive points at which the electric field has the same amplitude and direction.

The radio transmitting sets emit these electromagnetic waves into space.

But tuning our receiving instruments to catch their pitch or wave
length we are able to pull their messages out of the air.

RADIO PRIMER

Tungsten—A metal used in the manufacture of radio grids, filaments and other articles of radio equipment.

It is a bright steel-gray, hard, brittle, crystalline substance. It is malleable and ductile. Filaments are made of drawn tungsten wire.

Besides its use in radio apparatus, tungsten is much used in the manufacture of incandescent light filaments.

radio listeners demand one day's rest

23 Soldiers and German Foreman Killed

BERLIN, April 10.—(By the Associated Press)—Twenty-three soldiers and one German foreman, were reported killed and 10 others injured in an explosion at the Huetten Smelting Works near Gleitwiz. It was expected that martial law would be proclaimed. The latest accounts declare the explosion took place in the family vault of Count Einsiedel, one of the founders of the royal smelting works, in the cemetery connected with the works. Unofficial reports asserted a hidden mine was detonated during a search for concealed arms. The inter-allied commission for Upper Silesia is in control, but it is declared that so far no evidence that so far no evidence incriminating German subjects has been found.

CIVIL WAR NEAR SAYS COLLINS

Only Miracle Can Avert It
Unless Opponents Change
Tactics, He Says

Issues Stern Warning to de Valera and Foes of Irish
Free State

DOUBLIN, April 10.—(By the Associated Press).—In a speech delivered in Wexford yesterday, Michael Collins, head of the provisional government, declared that unless there was an immediate change in the tone and tactics of certain of the people, "it looks as if civil war can only be averted by a miracle."

Mr. Collins added that in such a contingency there was little doubt the British would return to restore the order which the Irish would have shown themselves unable to preserve.

A Dublin train on which Mr. Collins was supposed to be traveling to Wexford found the rails had been decided on up near Arklow. Armed men prevented a repair gang from replacing the rails. Mr. Collins had told his opponents by making the trip during the night.

Thousands of persons attended the meeting in Wexford. There were only feeble signs of opposition to Mr. Collins. He declared that the language of Eamon de Valera had become that of a dangerous desperado; that de Valera, while posing as a lover of liberty and shouting the name of liberty, was trampling its form under foot.

"The language of our opponents," declared Mr. Collins, "is that of treason, not patriotism. Our existence is threatened. No enemy from the outside ever has had the power to threaten it, and there is grave danger of another period of long agony before the country. Unless there is an immediate change in the tone and tactics of certain people it looks as if civil war can only be averted by a miracle. In case of civil war the British will return to restore the order which the Irish people have shown themselves unable to preserve."

Mr. Collins concluded by again appealing to de Valera to pause and consider where his language, which is being translated into action, is hurrying the nation.

F. of I. F. Take Action
NEW YORK, April 10.—Even though it wishes to brand de Valera's "present protestations on behalf of Irish republicans" as sham, the national council of the Friends of Irish Freedom, headed in this city by Supreme Court Justice Daniel F. Cohalan, announced in a declaration made public yesterday that the Friends would never endorse the free state, and individual members should not do so. The declaration says:

"This organization sees, however, that by permitting the free state to come into being without any such endorsement as would stultify the race historically, very material advantages can be gained for Ireland. The British soldiers can be got out of the country;

the British controlled police can be cleared out of the barracks; the economic and educational situation can be vastly improved. Then, when the Irish people again decide upon absolute separation from England, a united race abroad can swing world sentiment against a foreign invasion of Ireland.
Thus the aim of the organization with regard to Ireland will be fulfilled.

"HOW ARE YOU?" YOUR FRIENDS ASK

They Hope That You Are Well and Strong—Poor Health is Unnatural

All your friends greet you with "How do you do?" or "How are you?" They want you to be in good health. Poor health means unhappiness and trouble and pain to you and your friends and is not what Nature planned for human beings. But through overwork or improper living people do become run-down and sick. If you feel that way and are weak and nervous and do not sleep well and have headaches, go get some Gude's Pepto-Mangan and take it with your meals for a few weeks and you will get your health and strength back again and be as well as your healthy friends. You can buy it in liquid or tablet form. Ask for Gude's Pepto-Mangan.—Adv.

Conception churches, and a short retreat for men was brought to a fitting end at the Church of the Sacred Heart. All Catholics will observe Wednesday, Friday and Saturday of this week as days of abstinence, although fasting on Saturday will cease at noon. On Holy Thursday the customary processions will be held in all the churches, with the Blessed Sacrament exposed for veneration by visitors from other parishes. But one mass will be celebrated on this day, in most cases celebrated on Wednesday afternoon and evening for those who wish to receive communion. In many of the churches on Thursday evening tenebrae services will be held, with sermons on the Blessed Sacrament. On Good Friday, commemorating the Saviour's death on the cross, the mass of the presanctified will be celebrated in all churches, and in the afternoon stations of the cross will be held. Sermons on the Passion will feature the evening services.

On Holy Saturday the customary services will be held in the morning, and Easter water distributed in all the churches.

Next Sunday will be Easter Sunday and will be celebrated with usual joyful services commemorating the resurrection of Christ.

At St. Patrick's church yesterday some 2200 men of the parish attended communion at the 7 o'clock mass, with Rev. Fr. Healey, O.P., as celebrant. At the end of the mass members of the Holy Name society and the Catholic Young Men's Lyceum gathered in the parish school for communion breakfast and elaborate exercises in observance of the 45th anniversary of the founding of the Holy Name society. The high mass was sung by Rev. James A. Supple, D.D., with Rev. Fr. Healey, O.P., preaching the sermon and making the announcements. The closing of the men's mission took place at 3 o'clock in the afternoon, when the customary exercises, consisting of rosary, sermon, benediction and the papal blessing, were conducted. The sermon was preached by Rev. James Mackin, O.P. A feature of the service was the recitation of several hundred members into the Holy Name society. All religious articles were also blessed. On Thursday, Friday and Saturday morning masses will be celebrated at 8, 9, 10 and 11 o'clock. On Friday evening at 8 o'clock appropriate services will be conducted.

Members of the Y.M.C.A. and the Holy Name society received communion at the Immaculate Conception church yesterday, at the 5 o'clock mass, with Rev. T. Francis Curry, O.M.I., as celebrant. After the mass the members of the Y.M.C.A. attended a communion breakfast in their quarters on Stackpole street, with appropriate exercises following. At the 7 o'clock mass members of the Immaculate Conception sodality received communion. The high mass was sung by Rev. James B. McCardin, O.M.I., and the announcements were made by the pastor, Rev. Lawrence P. Tighe, O.M.I. Last evening at 7 o'clock DuBois' "Seven Last Words of Christ" was effectively rendered by the church choir, augmented by singers from other parishes. A large congregation was present, and each word was explained by Rev. William J. Stanton, O.M.I. William L. Cookin personally directed the music and Mrs. Hugh Walker presided at the organ. The services were brought to a close by benediction of the Blessed Sacrament. The men's mission came to a close yesterday afternoon at 3 o'clock, with Rev. T. Francis Curry, O.M.I., and Rev. Albert McDermott, O.M.I., conducting the service, which consisted of the rosary, a sermon on "Perseverance," delivery of the papal blessing and blessing of the religious articles. Communion will be given Thursday morning at 8, 9, 10 and 11 o'clock. There will be tenebrae service and a sermon on the Blessed Sacrament in the evening at 7:30. Friday morning the mass of the presanctified will be celebrated at 8 o'clock. Stations of the cross will be held in the afternoon at 3 and veneration of the true cross at 7:30 in the evening. There will be services Saturday morning at 7 o'clock.

At the Church of the Sacred Heart yesterday the close of the men's retreat took place at the 7:30 o'clock mass, when members of the Holy Name society and other men of the parish received communion. Rev. T. J. Coffey, O.M.I., was the celebrant, and the usual service of renewal of baptismal vows, a sermon on "Perseverance" and the papal benediction were carried out. Members of the Holy Name society attended a communion breakfast in the school hall after mass. On Thursday and Friday morning masses will be at 8 o'clock, with communion at 8:15, 9 and 10 o'clock on Thursday morning. Confessions will be heard Wednesday afternoon and evening. A three hours devotion will be held on Friday evening from 4 to 8 o'clock in commemoration of the Passion. This is a distinctly new departure in Good Friday services and it is expected that a great number will take advantage of the opportunity to be present. Mass will be celebrated at 7 o'clock on Saturday morning.

Rev. Daniel J. Keleher, Ph. D., the pastor, was the celebrant of the 7:30 o'clock mass at St. Peter's church yesterday, at which members of the Holy Name society received communion in a body. Rev. Dr. Keleher was assisted in giving communion by Rev. Daniel J. Heffernan and Rev. Peter T. Linnahan. Rev. John M. Mahlon sang the high mass at 11 o'clock, and Rev. Dr. Linnahan preached. On Thursday, Friday and Saturday morning masses will be conducted and on Thursday morning at 5:30 communion will be distributed. There will be services at 7:30 Wednesday evening, at 8 o'clock Thursday afternoon and at 7:30 Friday evening.

Proceeding the high mass at St. Michael's church yesterday a procession was held through the aisles of the church, with the clergy and the parish members of the sanctuary choir and altar boys participating. The procession was in commemoration of Christ's triumphant entry into Jerusalem. Blessed palms were distributed at the service. The high mass was sung by Rev. Francis J. Mullin, and the announcements were read by Rev. James Lynch, O.P. On Tuesday evening at 7:30 there will be a meeting of the Immaculate Conception sodality, to plan for their communion next Sunday. Communion will be given at 8:30 and 9 o'clock Thursday morning and there will be a solemn high mass at 8:30. On Friday morning the mass of the presanctified will be celebrated at 8 o'clock. Services will be held on Thursday and Friday evenings at 7:30 and the stations of the cross at 4 Friday afternoon.

The late mass at St. Margaret's church yesterday was celebrated by the pastor, Rev. Charles J. Galligan. Many of the faithful received communion at the early masses, celebrated by Rev. Andrew P. O'Brien and Rev. William P. Brennan. At 7:30 Wednesday evening there will be Lenten devotions, and confessions will be heard Wednesday afternoon and evening. On Thursday, Friday and Saturday morning masses will be celebrated at 7 o'clock. Communion will be given Thursday morning at 5 o'clock. Stations of the cross will be held at 4 o'clock Friday afternoon and there will be recitations of the rosary, a sermon and veneration of the true cross at 7:30 Friday evening.

At St. Columba's church yesterday the late mass was celebrated by Rev. James P. Somers. On Wednesday afternoon at 7 o'clock in the evening stations of the cross will be held. Communion will be given at 5:15, 7 and 7:30 o'clock Thursday morning.

There will be a high mass and procession at 8:30, and in the evening Holy Hour services will be held at 7:45. The mass of the presanctified will be held Friday morning at 8:30; at 3 o'clock in the afternoon there will be stations of the cross, and at 7:30 in the evening rosary and a sermon. On Saturday a mass will be celebrated at 7:30 o'clock.

The blessing of the palms at St. Jean Baptiste church took place at the parish mass at 11 o'clock yesterday morning, the officiating clergyman being Rev. Anselm Merrell, O.M.I. The usual procession was held in the church and a special musical program was given by the choir under the direction of Joseph Paradisi, who also presided at the organ.

At 3 o'clock in the afternoon the mission for the married and unmarried women was brought to a close with elaborate ceremonies. The sermon was delivered by Rev. L. V. Lewis, O.M.I., formerly of this city and now of Plattsburg, N. Y. He also officiated at the closing of the mission for the married and unmarried men, which took place at the same church at 6:30 o'clock in the evening.

The celebrant of the parish mass at St. Joseph's church at 10:20 o'clock was Rev. L. A. Nolin, O.M.I., who also officiated at the blessing of the palms prior to the service. At offertory the choir under the direction of Tele-

GEN. VON FALKENHAYN OF GERMANY DEAD

BERLIN, April 10.—(By the Associated Press.)—Gen. Erich von Falkenhayn, former minister of war and one-time chief of staff of the German army, died Saturday at Wild Park, near Potsdam.

Gen. von Falkenhayn was appointed war minister of Germany in 1913, succeeding Gen. von Haeften. Soon after the outbreak of the world war he was appointed chief of the general staff, succeeding Gen. von Moltke, who at the time was declared to be ill.

In August, 1916, von Falkenhayn was supplanted by von Hindenburg and soon afterward took the field in Transylvania against the Rumanians. It was said at the time of his removal from the position of chief of staff that he had been dismissed for urging Emperor William to abandon the Balkan campaign and shorten the German line.

Falkenhayn defeated the Rumanians in the campaign of 1916. Later he went to Asiatic Turkey where he commanded the Turks.

Von Falkenhayn was born in 1861 and was considered one of Germany's dashing commanders.

BUILDING THE WAY TO PROSPERITY

The trouble today is not the lack of opportunity, but with lack of people to take advantage of the opportunities that are presented to them.

Mr. Soriero, the well known general manager of the Strand theatre, in expressing this sentiment is visualizing the biggest building boom the country has ever known. With a shortage according to statistics of over 400,000 homes in New England alone with unhealthy, overcrowded tenements without precedent in Lowell, with the demand for home sites far in excess of the supply, it is a wise man who builds, and rents to himself, instead of remaining dependent on the old age on someone else. Mr. Soriero was quick to feel the public pulse in this connection, and in his novel plan once more demonstrates in a most striking way the enterprising and progressive spirit of the Strand management.

Briefly, the plan is this: On and after Monday, April 10, every patron upon entering the Strand theatre will be presented a card at the door. On this card the patron will write his name and address, keep the stub for identification, and pass the card to the man at the door. At a time to be announced, six patrons will be chosen and their names will be announced on the screen and a beautiful house it will be awarded to them. There will be no charge for this card for any person purchasing a ticket; and patrons may write as many cards as they wish. At the same time, it will be an undreamed-of opportunity for selected patrons to the Strand theatre to get a beautiful house lot on which to erect an attractive home, and all patrons will have the same opportunity.

Too much credit cannot be given to Mr. Soriero, for it was due to his efforts that the Belvidere Realty company was induced to make this liberal offer to awaken Lowell people to the unusual opportunities in the country seat of Middlesex county. Property in the Belvidere section is generally conceded to be in the most beautiful and promising locality, and it was Mr. Soriero's express wish that his patrons should derive the benefits of an exclusive neighborhood.

The beginning of President Cleveland's fortune was a purchase of land in what is now Cleveland park, one of the best known suburbs of Washington, D. C. Mr. Soriero firmly believes as did Cleveland, that "no investment is so safe, so sure, so certain to enrich its owner, as land." Indeed, history shows that it has always been the land owners who have been the most prosperous, the most loyal, and the most contented people of any community, and it is with this conviction that Mr. Soriero has himself purchased the first home site this season at beautiful Belvidere park.

AMUSEMENT NOTES

(By Theatres' Own Press Agents)

B. F. KEITH'S THEATRE

In a measure the present week at the B. F. Keith theatre might be termed "Old Favorites Week," for we are to see those old friends, Mr. and Mrs. Jimmie Barry, on the program. In one of the best sketches ever written, "The Rubo." For the reason that Barry, who wrote the sketch, has given something of undying interest, his sketch is as good today as it was the first time it was played. That is saying a lot. "The Rubo" is the most distinct break-away from the run of rural sketches the theatre has known for many years. The leading part is that of a haysack, who looks the part through and through, but whose mighty active mind enables him to get at naught the pitfalls which the clever New Yorkers set for him. Mind you, it is comedy all the way through, but good, clean, different comedy.

And if Miss Rooney is not exactly an old favorite, she is the member of a family which is every whit as noted as the Barrys. Daughter of the famous Pat Rooney, Sr., and a sister of Pat Rooney, Jr., she is unquestionably one of the finest dancers on the stage today. She will be assisted by Bobby Nelson and Rube Beckwith in a very ginsery musical skit called "A Cafe Honeymoon."

Direct from the concert stage come the Hagedus Sisters, violinists of exceptional ability. There have been sister acts here in the past, with one sister prodigal on one instrument and one on another, but never so far as can be remembered, have both been equally proficient on any one type of instrument. These girls are equipped in every way to please audiences.

An alliance of song, music and fun is made up of Sharkey, Roth & Wil. Here are three men who will guarantee you 15 minutes of about everything you need. Moriarty & Harris will also appear in their original singing and dancing revue, which is based on New York's love for gaiety. Countess Verona is a Hungarian player of the cymbalom, an instrument capable of giving great beauty of tone, and Montambo & Nap are acrobatic funsters, who do their work silently, but none the less effectively. In addition Fopces of the Day, Father News and Aesop's Fables will be shown.

RIALTO THEATRE

A picture that is peculiarly appropriate to the closing week of the Lenten season opens at the Rialto theatre today with the showing of "The Rosary." An added feature will be the presence of Miss Harriet Moran, who will sing "In the Gloaming," also "The Rosary," two songs that fit in with the run of the picture in an appealing way. On the same program is a story of the northwest mounted police, entitled "Corporal Jim's Ward," also a comedy and the Kinograms. Don't fail to go and see this program for the three first days of the week.

THE STRAND

Tom Moore, he of the funny facial expressions, will be shown in his newest Goldwyn offering, "From the Ground Up," at the Strand for the first three days of the week. It's a companion piece to "Hold Your

MERRIMACK SQUARE THEATRE

Two stirring dramatic features, "The Grudge," starring Ethel Clayton, and "Find the Woman," with Alma Rubens in the leading role, are the outstanding attractions of the current program at the Merrimack Square theatre. Coming next Thursday, Friday and Saturday, "Shame," featuring an all-star cast.

Horses," and you all know how amusing and entertaining that was. Those who are in a position to judge, say that the latest picture is better than any that has gone before, particularly in showing the cleverness of Moore in the characterization of a product of the Irish race. Miss Lettie Pickford, sister of Mary, will be shown in "They Shall Pay," a gripping, powerful drama of Wall Street, in which the star is afforded excellent opportunity to reflect her cleverness. The usual comedy and weekly will also be shown. Don't miss this varied and high grade program.

Strikers' Big Demonstration in Manchester
MANCHESTER, N. H., April 10.—Several thousand textile strikers, a large number of them girls and women, took part in an immense parade which wound its way through the principal streets of the city this afternoon. The parade was the first demonstration that has marked the local strike since its beginning, nine weeks ago, and was planned, according to union leaders, as a means of illustrating the strength of the strikers. Veterans of the European war in uniform, carrying American flags and banners bearing slogans urging a 48-hour week, headed the procession, which was led by Vice President James Starr of the United Textile Workers, Dennis M. Fleming, president of the Manchester Textile Council and John Hoban, president of the local Metal Trades council.

WASHINGTON, April 10.—Absolute neutrality toward the different factions in Ireland until after a referendum of the Irish people on ratification of the Anglo-Irish treaty was announced today as the policy of the District of Columbia directorate of the American Association for Recognition of the Irish Republic. This policy, decided upon last night by an almost unanimous vote of the directorate was said by members to mean the elimination of local branches of the association from the national body as the latter had served notice that unless previous action by the locals to the same effect was rescinded, the District of Columbia directorate would be dropped.

LONDON, April 10.—Stanley Baldwin, president of the board of trade, told the house of commons today, that advantage would be taken of any opportunity to bring about preferential tariffs between England and Brazil, similar to those extended by Brazil to the United States and Belgium.

Withdraw All Troops From Strike Zone
PAWTUCKET, R. I., April 10.—Gov. San Souci today issued orders to have all troops now on duty in Pawtucket in connection with the textile strike withdrawn on Tuesday, April 11. This action was taken after the governor had consulted with Col. Cyril L. D. Wells, in charge of the troops here, and Mayor Robert A. Kenyon. Troops have been stationed in this city since the last week in February, but two previous withdrawals have left the number on duty at less than 200.

SERIES OF RAIDS IN N. Y.
Izzy Einstein and Moe Smith,
Clever Sleiths Arrest 26—Seize $30,000 in Liquor

NEW YORK, April 10.—Disguised as tourists, their car covered with mud and dirt, and their faces smeared with dust, Izzy Einstein and Moe Smith, New York's most versatile prohibition agents, yesterday raided nearly two score cafes, arresting 26 proprietors and employees and seizing liquor valued by them at $30,000.

It was the first Sabbath liquor raid ever made here by federal sleuths. Seven nationalities were represented in the list of prisoners, who were rounded up after several hours' work. The highest haul was made in a former saloon at 335 Amsterdam avenue. Izzy and Moe breezed into the place yesterday morning.

"Did you enjoy that speech last night?" asked Izzy of Moe as they approached the bar.

"I did not," replied Moe, disgustedly. "There was too much prohibition in it."

"What'll you have, boys?" asked the proprietor smiling.

"A little hooch," brazenly replied Izzy.

The proprietor poured the liquor in a glass and the two agents poured it into test tubes, which they carried in their vest pockets. The owner, stunned by surprise, then was arrested.

A search of the place, Einstein said, revealed 55 cases of champagne and other imported wines, several cases of gin and whiskey and scores of bottles of assorted liquors.

Walking into a saloon on Ninth avenue, the two agents found the bartender doing a rushing business. After Izzy and Moe had been served with drinks, they arrested the bartender and seized his overcoat which was lying on the back of the bar. In the pockets, they said, they found several bottles of liquor.

When the two agents walked into a cafe at 589 Jefferson street, they got an unlooked for surprise. After being served with liquor, they said they showed their shields and told the proprietor, John Lagodach, he was under arrest.

"What for?" they said he asked of them.

"For violating the prohibition law," Einstein replied.

"Never heard of it," countered Lagodach.

"Come along and I'll have the judge explain," said Einstein, as he led the owner to his car to be taken to the police station.

Before proceeding to the Bronx, Einstein and Smith changed their disguises, assuming that of a coach driver, high hats and all.

"I don't like these Sunday funerals," complained Izzy as they walked into the first Bronx saloon.

"Neither do I," replied Moe. "I hate to work on Sunday."

The bartender, who served them with liquor, agreed with them, saying: "I'd like to go to the Polo grounds this afternoon, but the boss won't let me off."

As resolver for Waban rose conservatories and for Henry Woods Son Co. Ulmer was alleged to have sought to maintain the companies for his own gain, and to have brought Justice Pierce into a conspiracy to that end.

Justice Pierce is under indictment on similar charges, but the trial has been postponed until the legislature's inquiry is finished.

Frequent delivery of roses from the conservatories to Judge Pierce's home at Brookline was testified to by Arthur Ranney, a chauffeur. During the entire period of his 18th months' employment by the conservatories, he said, roses were sent to the Pierce home. They were long-stemmed flowers, he testified. Justice Pierce in his answer to the charges, admitted receipt of the roses, but said they were short-stemmed and unsuitable. The judge contends that such gifts as he received were from Ulmer as a neighbor and in no wise could be interpreted as intended to affect litigation.

Mr. J. Jordan, who said he had been a truck driver for the conservatories, testified to deliveries of roses and a few bunches of vegetables at Judge Pierce's home. These deliveries occurred once a week for a considerable period, but were later increased to twice a week, the witness said. The stems of the flowers, Jordan asserted, were 8, 12, 18, and occasionally 18 inches long, and the roses were always of the best quality. The 8 and 12 inch stems predominated, he said.

During part of the time that Judge Pierce was receiving roses, Jordan said, the flowers were very scarce and the conservatory was unable to fill its orders.

Jordan also testified to delivering a few bunches of vegetables, two bushels of potatoes and a load of wood to Judge Pierce's home in the fall of 1919.

The hearing adjourned after Jordan left the stand under an agreement by which Senator Hardy announced sessions would be held only from 9.30 to 1.30 o'clock daily the first four days of this week.

Second Trial of Burch Starts Today
LOS ANGELES, April 10.—The second trial of Arthur C. Burch for the murder of J. Belton Kennedy, was to start all over again today. Charges of jury tampering, which resulted in the arrest of one man on a felony charge and threatened procedure against another for contempt of court, halted the trial last week, when the entire jury panel was discharged. Sixty-five veniremen were summoned to appear. Paul Schenick, defense counsel, said there might be "a little excitement" today but declined to give details.

WASHINGTON, April 10.—General defense of the radical raids of 1919 and 1920, conducted by order of Attorney General Palmer was made in a report by Senator Stirling, republican, South Dakota, chairman of a senate judiciary investigating subcommittee, made public today with a supplemental report by Senator Walsh, democrat, Montana, attacking vigorously the raids and challenging conclusions of the Stirling report.

FOR STRIKE SETTLEMENT
Board of Conciliation Unable to Obtain Proposal From Hamilton Mfg. Co.

Mayor George H. Brown today received a letter from representatives of the board of conciliation of the United States department of labor, saying that they had been unable to get a proposal from the Hamilton Mfg. Co. that might be helpful in bringing about an amicable settlement of the present differences between the textile workers and the company.

The letter states that several interviews have been held with a prominent official and authorized agent of the Hamilton, but that the local situation still remains in a state of deadlock.

FOR REMOVAL OF JUDGE
Testimony Regarding Alleged Graft Involving Justice Pierce Introduced

BOSTON, April 10.—Testimony intended to support charges of graft and conspiracy on which a petition for the removal of Supreme Court Justice Edward P. Pierce are based was introduced today in a legislative committee. The proceedings which are the first step in the procedure provided for the discharge of judges by the governor on address by the legislature, were held in a hearing room at the state house with only a few persons in attendance. The petitioners, Representative Jordan of Wakefield, and his law associate, George M. Poland, conducted the presentation of testimony for the removal of the judge. George L. Mayberry and former Attorney Herbert Parker led the counsel in behalf of Justice Pierce who was himself present. The legislative committee, headed by Senator Leonard P. Rye of Huntington, as chairman, sat as the jury.

Justice Pierce is charged specifically with accepting from W. Edwin Ulmer, an attorney, gratuities of roses, wood and vegetables to assist him in litigation in which Ulmer was interested.

As resolver for Waban rose conservatories and for Henry Woods Son Co. Ulmer was alleged to have sought to maintain the companies for his own gain, and to have brought Justice Pierce into a conspiracy to that end.

Justice Pierce is under indictment on similar charges, but the trial has been postponed until the legislature's inquiry is finished.

SYRUP PEPSIN IN OLD AGE

Much used by elderly people for constipation, biliousness, headache, etc.

MANY men and women, as they grow older, suffer constantly from little ills. The cause is the poisons produced by chronic constipation, resulting in headache, depression, bloating, sour stomach, bad breath, etc. A single bottle of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin will prove to you that you can so regulate yourself that elimination will occur promptly every day. Increased doses are not necessary. It is a combination of Egyptian Senna and others simple laxative herbs with pepsin. The cost is only about a cent a dose.

In spite of the fact that Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin has been on the market 30 years and is today the largest selling liquid laxative in the world, the formula has never been improved upon. It is safer and better for you than salts, minerals, calomel, coal tar and such drastic purgatives.

Half-Ounce Bottle Free

Few escape constipation, so even if you do not require a laxative at this moment, let me send you a Half-Ounce Trial Bottle of my Syrup Pepsin FREE OF CHARGE so that you will have it handy when needed. STREET WORK IN FULL SWING TODAY

Street department men were scattered all over the city today doing any number of different jobs, with the spring and summer campaign in full swing. Street car sprinklers made their first appearance today, also, and three steam rollers were chugged out for the first time this year.

Paving blocks are being hauled onto the job in upper Moody street, near the water department men ransacking services and a gang near the old cat barn loosening up the cinders preparatory to oiling and rolling and sanding.

Another gang was at work today at the auditorium, cleaning out the tree stumps left when the park department men finished their job of taking down the elm trees. The Pawtucket boulevard will be patched at once and the first gang was sent there today to get ready for patching. The entire surface will be oiled and sanded and the surface put in satisfactory condition for the time being, at least.

BATTERY B PLANS TO HOLD CIRCUS

The California shows, a combination of miniature circus, midway and carnival, will show in this city during the week of April 24-30, under the auspices of Battery B. This was announced this morning by Capt. George J. Faneuf, commander of the battery, who signed the contract and obtained permission from both the police and the management of the Alameda mill grounds, in Lakeview avenue, the site picked out by the battery upon which to stage the production.

The question of a site gave the battery members more or less concern. Last year, this same company came here and put on its offering on the Washington park grounds. Since that time, the ground has been used for the storage of lumber and it was necessary to obtain the board's permission to stage a show there. The park board intends to start work fixing the park up for a ball grounds in the near future.

Commander Faneuf came before the board at its meeting last week, and requested permission to use the grounds. Owing to the fact that the board was not in a position to pay for advertising, policemen and ticket-takers. This year, the terms of the contract call for the show people to furnish everything connected with the management and maintenance of the production.

The battery wanted a later date than the one it received, but this was impossible as the show starts out this season much earlier than usual. Lowell will be the last show in its line, the production will open in Lawrence the week previous to its Lowell engagement. From here it will go to Malden.

The company is equipped with two large tents and will show the usual vaudeville numbers in addition to a number of other attractions.

WORCESTER, April 10.—Chief James of the Worcester fire department, today made strenuous objections to police patrolmen using firemen as spotters in liquor raids. He said, firemen are paid to fight fires, not to fight moonshiners.

KEEP LOOKING YOUNG
It's Easy—If You Know Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets

The secret of keeping young is to feel young—to do this you must watch your liver and bowels—there's no need of having a sallow complexion—dark rings under your eyes—pimples—a bilious look in your face—dull eyes with no sparkle. Your doctor will tell you 90 per cent. of all sickness comes from inactive bowels and liver.

Dr. Edwards, a well known physician in Ohio, perfected a vegetable compound mixed with olive oil to act on the liver and bowels, which he gave to his patients for years.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel, are gentle in their action yet always effective. They bring about that natural buoyancy which all should enjoy by toning up the liver and clearing the system of impurities.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets are known by their olive color. 15c and 30c—Adv.

NO NEW DEVELOPMENTS IN TEXTILE STRIKE

A well attended meeting of the presidents of the various local unions affiliated with the United Textile Workers of America was held Saturday night in Trades & Labor Hall, Central street, with President John H. Hanes in the chair. Lowell Textile company was the general topic of discussion. The meeting was called for the purpose of hearing the report of the special committee appointed a week ago last Saturday to look into the advisability of requesting the superior court for an injunction to force the officials of the Hamilton Manufacturing company and the Jay State Cotton corporation to show their books and prove why the 20 per cent. reduction announced in their respective mills a few weeks ago, is imperative.

The committee made a report of progress, but informed the meeting they were not yet ready to make definite announcement and they requested that they be given more time to look into the matter, and their request was granted.

The committee of strikers, who went to Framingham last Saturday for the purpose of conducting a tax day for the benefit of the local strikers, returned to this city yesterday and although their report was not quite finished, they informed the strike leaders that the donations had been very liberal and that the amount collected was very substantial.

Kellogg's SHREDDED KRUMBLES. ALL WHEAT READY TO EAT. THE ORIGINAL AND THIS SCHEME. W. K. Kellogg. KELLOGG TOASTED CORN FLAKE CO. BATTLE CREEK, MICH.—DETROIT, CANADA.

"I wish my boy was rugged like Billy!"

Red-blooded, physically courageous children stand out sharply against puny types! Such contrasts are painful enough in childhood! What future can the undersized stripling expect?

Science proves that in most cases that contrast represents the difference between the properly nourished child and the child brought up on foods out of which life-sustaining elements have been bleached—devitalized, denatured!

You should know that Kellogg's delicious whole-wheat KRUMBLES—with the full, enticing flavor of whole wheat for the first time in food history—are what your child needs every day! And, it is just as important that every member of your family eats KRUMBLES! For, KRUMBLES contain every food element that the body demands—and in perfect proportion!

Whole-wheat KRUMBLES produce red blood and bone and muscle! They make children grow big and strong and robust; they build physical courage and mental vigor! KRUMBLES fortify men and women for the day's work! KRUMBLES sustain the aged as nothing else can! All grocers sell KRUMBLES.

PELHAM MAN KILLED IN AUTOMOBILE ACCIDENT

Elljah R. Jones of Pelham, N. H., was killed in an automobile accident on the Andover road Saturday afternoon. Jeremiah J. McGillicuey of this city, owner and driver of the car which figured in the accident, escaped with a few minor bruises, while the body of the car was wrecked. Shortly after the accident, McGillicuey was arrested by the Andover police on a charge of manslaughter and was later released on $2300 bonds.

The accident occurred at about 3.30 o'clock at a point near Haggott's pond, while the two men were on their way to a football game in Lawrence. It seems that when the machine reached a bend in the road, another car came along and crowded it off into a stretch of road covered with wet clay. The McGillicuey machine skidded and crashed into a telegraph pole. Jones received internal injuries and died a few minutes after the accident.

Mr. Jones, who with his brother, Albert M., was engaged in the lumber business in Pelham, N. H., was well and favorably known in this city. He was 45 years of age and is survived by his mother, Mrs. Henry A. Jones; two sisters, Miss Bertha E. Jones and Mrs. Arthur M. Butler, the latter of this city, and a brother, Albert M. Jones.

FLOW OF WORDS IN AIR GRADUAL

Duncan Explains How Sound
Waves Travel and Reverse
Themselves in Field

Broadcasting is Simple Matter When Transmitting
Principle is Understood

By R. L. DUNCAN
Director, Radio Institute of America
Before we go any further with the erection of larger receiving sets, some explanation should be made about
transmitting.

How are the dots and dashes, lectures and concerts wafted through the air?

We know that most broadcasting is done on a 360-metre wave length. We know shops and commercial stations
have a normal transmitting length of 600 metres.

But what is this wave length? What has it to do with radio?

On flow of electric current in any circuit is accompanied by the existence of interlinked magnetic and
static fields which surround the conductors carrying the current and extend throughout space.

Whenever the direction of current flow in the circuit is reversed, these fields reverse themselves also.

Like Water Ripples
This reversal does not take place
throughout space instantaneously. The phenomenon is somewhat similar to the ripples on the surface of the water when a pebble is thrown in.

The disturbance gradually propa-
gates itself at a uniform speed, keeping its shape and characteristic until
it dies due to friction losses. This reversal in the electric field propa-
gates itself in much the same way.

On account of the similarity to ripples in the water, this phenomenon is called an electromagnetic wave. Such waves, however, travel outward not only in one plane but they radiate into space through the ether.

Wave Series
If a frequently reversed current is sent through a circuit, the interlinked magnetic and static fields will alternately reverse at the same frequency.

This constitutes a series of waves progressing from the current-carrying conductor.

circuit outward into space in all directions.
The length of these waves radiated
is measured by the distance between
two consecutive points at which the
electric field has the same amplitude
and direction.

The radio transmitting sets emit
these electromagnetic waves into space.
But tuning our receiving instruments to catch their pitch or wave
length we are able to pull their mes-

ENEMY PROPERTY HELD
Accounting of $350,000,000
Worth Held by Government Given by Custodian

WASHINGTON, April 10.—An accounting of the $350,000,000 worth of enemy property held by the government, was given this senate today in a report, the first compiled since Feb. 1919, filed by Allen Froy,
senior Custodian Thomas W. Miller,
in response to a resolution by Senator King, democrat, of Utah.

"The final disposition of this property," Mr. Miller said, "will undoubtedly have a direct bearing on the economic relations between this country and Europe, with particular reference to the late enemy powers. The sequestered property will also have a bearing on the settlement of American claims against Germany."

Discussing the $145,000,000 of American claims against Germany, Mr.
Miller recalled the terms of the Knox
Porter peace resolution indicating that no disposition should be made of enemy property held by the United States,
until the German government had provided for the satisfaction of all American claims. He asserted that congress must evolve some plan whereby American claims against Germany may be adjudicated by some proper tribunal
created by law.

"There are several classes of claims against Germany," Mr. Miller said, "as for instance, those of Americans whose cash was seized by the German custodian, and who are now being offered
the return of their money at the depreciated value of the mark, which today
is valued at one-third of a cent for each mark or a reduction of 720 per cent from the pre-war value. This proposition amounts to practical confiscation on the part of the German government. There are also claims on file with the state department for the loss of property and life at sea, growing out of submarine sinkings previous to April 6, 1917.

"If the German property were returned today without any conditions,
the tax laws in force in Germany
would require German nationals or other people under the jurisdiction of the German government, whose property was returned to them, to give up in taxes to the German government a major portion of the funds returned.
One of the taxes assessed is known as the empire need tax, the revenues of which are utilized by the German government for its own nationals, and a second tax known as the indemnity
tax the proceeds of which are paid into reparations going to our late allies.

"It has been suggested that the amount of money which the German government would realize from such taxation, might form the basis of a fund to be left in this country, the same to be applied for the satisfaction of claims of American citizens against Germany when these claims are adjudicated."

Mr. Miller's report consisted of thousands of typewritten pages giving the details of about 33,000 active trusts.

The report said that the last property seized was that belonging to Grover Cleveland Berdell, which was seized May 27, 1921.

"Attorneys fees paid prior to March 4, 1921, $2,138,546; attorneys fees paid since March 4, 1921, $116,469; salaries of officers and directors of corporations previous to March 4, 1921, $1,574,017;
salaries since March 4, 1921, $132,435;
paid for accounting and appraising
previous to March 4, 1921, $1,081,359;
paid for the same since March 4, 1921,
$2,718; paid for advertising and printing previous to March 4, 1921, $258,067.

since Feb. 1919, filed by Allen Froy,
senior Custodian Thomas W. Miller,
in response to a resolution by Senator King, democrat, of Utah.

"The final disposition of this property," Mr. Miller said, "will undoubtedly have a direct bearing on the economic relations between this country and Europe, with particular reference to the late enemy powers. The sequestered
property will also have a bearing on the settlement of American claims against Germany."

Discussing the $145,000,000 of American claims against Germany, Mr.
Miller recalled the terms of the Knox
Porter peace resolution indicating that
no disposition should be made of enemy property held by the United States,
until the German government had provided for the satisfaction of all American claims. He asserted that congress must evolve some plan whereby American claims against Germany may be adjudicated by some proper tribunal
created by law.

"There are several classes of claims against Germany," Mr. Miller said, "as for instance, those of Americans whose cash was seized by the German custodian, and who are now being offered
the return of their money at the depreciated value of the mark, which today
is valued at one-third of a cent for each mark or a reduction of 720 per cent from the pre-war value. This proposition amounts to practical confiscation on the part of the German government. There are also claims on file with the state department for the loss of property and life at sea, growing out of submarine sinkings previous to April 6, 1917.

"If the German property were returned today without any conditions,
the tax laws in force in Germany
would require German nationals or other people under the jurisdiction of the German government, whose property was returned to them, to give up
in taxes to the German government a major portion of the funds returned.
One of the taxes assessed is known as
the empire need tax, the revenues of which are utilized by the German government for its own nationals, and a second tax known as the indemnity
tax the proceeds of which are paid into reparations going to our late allies.

"It has been suggested that the amount of money which the German government would realize from such
taxation, might form the basis of a fund to be left in this country, the same to be applied for the satisfaction
of claims of American citizens against Germany when these claims are ad-
judicated."

Mr. Miller's report consisted of thousands of typewritten pages giving the details of about 33,000 active trusts.

The report said that the last property seized was that belonging to Grover Cleveland Berdell, which was seized May 27, 1921.

RESTOCKING INLAND PONDS

Middlesex County Waters to Receive White Perch Seined
at Tashmoo

Story of Battle for Food Between Perch and Carp
Reads Like Fiction

A thousand white perch from Tashmoo pond, Martha's Vineyard, passed through Boston last week to new homes in inland lakes and ponds. Their journey was supervised by officers of the state department of fisheries and game.

It is very possible that Middlesex county waters will receive some of the wayfarers for this year. The department has received applications from 66 clubs and 33 individuals for white perch and in the list of ponds and lakes covered by these applications are Whitney pond at Groton, Little pond at Natick and Lake Quannapowitt at Wakefield.

A number of ponds fairly close to Lowell, or at least, within an easy journey, have been stocked with white perch in recent years, including Mud or Peters pond in Dracut, Mascuppic in Tyngsboro, Newfield at Uxbridge, Badcock at Groton, Forge at Westford, Sandy at Ayer, Long-Sought-for at Westford and Knapp at Groton. Ponds and Foster's ponds in Andover and Myrtle in Methuen also have been stocked in previous years by the fisheries division.

The action of the state department in transplanting thousands of white perch from Tashmoo pond to inland waters is almost an act of mercy for there it has been a long and losing battle between the perch and the German carp that swarmed the waters of Tashmoo. Both sides have become weakened in the fight for adequate rations, but particularly does the perch show signs of stunted growth and ill-nourished bodies and so it is being taken from the pond as rapidly as possible for transplanting in inland lakes where it can have a fair chance to live.

White perch inhabited Tashmoo pond since the days of the Indians and beyond. That serranoid fish of sporting blood and excellent flavor was the original Indian of the Tashmoo region and has fought a losing battle with the carp for supremacy. Its food supply has been consumed by wholesale. The perch is prolific and depends upon vegetation for food. The prolonged battle between the two gregarious fish armies has not been for life or territory, but for food and both the perch and carp have been forced for so long that they are not today of the robust type they used to be.

Giving them a new home was the only salvation for the Tashmoo perch, though it meant a perilous trip for the fish over land and sea and the Massachusetts division of fisheries came to the rescue. It sent a salvage expedition to the very interior of the Tashmoo region, with sweep seines, traps nets, holding buckets, dippers and a fleet of boats—all equipped to land the perch out of the lake and transport them to other ponds in Massachusetts and some way up to New Hampshire.

While compassion for the starving perch of Tashmoo had much to do with the decision to transport them to new homes, it was not the controlling reason for the state's intervention. The rescue was decided upon because of the clamor from all parts of the state for help to restore inland ponds which have become almost depopulated. Hundreds of these ponds have been examined by state experts and many of them have been found suitable for perch culture.

Of the ponds in Middlesex county that have been stocked in recent years and mentioned above, Mud, Mascuppic and Newfield are considered of first quality for perch breeding, while the water in the others named is of sound quality.

APPLICATIONS FOR NEW SHADE TREES

John W. Kernan, superintendent of parks, said today that applications for new shade trees to be planted in connection with Arbor day, will be received at his office until Saturday of this week. He added, however, that it will be a necessary prerequisite that a deposit of $1.25 be made with the application. That is the cost of the tree to the abutter. The money is to be returned to the abutter if the tree is planted. Applications will not be considered.

So far not more than a half-dozen applications have been received, although the department has 260 Norway maples and elm ready to set out beginning April 15.

DISABLED WAR VETERANS

American Legion Vigorously
Opposed to Senator Putnam's Amendment to Bill

John J. Walsh, historian of the American Legion and a member of the state executive committee, went to the state house today to confer with Senator Frank Putnam of Lowell and Leo M. Harlow, chairman of the Legion state legislative committee, relative to house bill 1482 providing for preference to disabled war veterans in the service of the commonwealth in the matter of certification and appointment.

As it passed the house the bill defines a disabled veteran as one who could produce proof from his discharge or receipt of a pension or compensation of continuing disability incurred in line of duty in time of war. When it reached the senate, however, Senator Putnam offered an amendment which leaves it to the discretion of the commissioner of civil service to determine upon and define "disabled veteran." This amendment is vigorously opposed by the American Legion, whose members favor the bill as passed by the house.

Mr. Walsh said this forenoon, just before leaving for Boston, that he had every reason to believe that Senator Putnam misunderstood the desires of the Legion on the matter and that no action would be taken in the senate at this time. It is felt now that the bill will go back to committee for alteration.
